By International News Service.

Petrograd, July 17.—The Hungarian town of Kirlibaba, in the Carpathian Mountains on the frontier of Transylvania, has been captured by the Russians, the War Office reported today.

(Kirlibaba is forty miles southwest of Radautz and represents a rapid advance of the Russians through the Carpathian Mountains.)

The official statement announced the capture of German trenches near Riga (at the extreme northern end of the front) and the capture of more men and guns. The text of the official statement follows:

"The forces of General Sakharoff have defeated the enemy at Svinhui (Svitusky). One thousand prisoners and five guns were captured. General Vladimir Dmitrieff has been wounded in the fighting.

"On the lower Lipa we captured 126 officers and 5,877 men, 24 guns and 14 machine guns. In Volhynia we have captured a total of thirty guns. We occupied Kirlibaba, on the Transylvanian frontier.

$1,850,000 for U. S. Buildings in Hub Is Recommended

By International News Service.

Washington, July 17.—An omnibus public building bill authorizing the construction of Federal buildings to cost some $65,000,000, including nearly $2,000,000 for Boston, was today recommended to the House for passage by the House Public Buildings Committee.

The bill would provide for abolishing the present system of administering the construction of public buildings. It would abolish the present supervising architect office in the Treasury Department and create instead a bureau of public buildings, headed by a commissioner of public buildings.

The report of the House vigorously criticised the present conduct of the supervising architect's office.

The principal authorizations include: For sites, Boston, immigration station, $100,000; for enlargement and rebuilding of present buildings, Boston, $250,000; Lowell, $250,000; Salem, $130,000; for new buildings on sites already acquired, Provincetown, $30,000; to secure new sites, Boston, $1,000,000, for court house, Custom House and other government offices.

LONGFELLOW HOME ROBBED BY VANDALS

The home of Mrs. Emily Longfellow, widow of the Professor William P. P. Longfellow of Harvard, at 479 Broadway, Cambridge, was robbed. The house was entered by bursting the lock on the back door and acts of vandalism committed. Mrs. Longfellow is living at her Summer home in Milton and reports to the police that her most valuable possessions were in storage.

The house at No. 22 Ware street, occupied by Clifton S. Wady and his sister was entered in the same manner and the interior practically wrecked. The police cannot estimate the damage for they have been unable as yet to locate the Wadys.

The shipment left Halifax Saturday by a special train of three steel cars, with coaches for armed express messengers, going over the Boston & Maine via Portland, Lowell and Worcester.

VILLA BAND TO SEIZE CITY

Bandit Is Moving on Chihuahua, Where He Plans to Establish Base; New Revolt in Sight

By WALLACE E. SMITH, Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., July 17.—Francisco Villa's new outlaw hordes, inflamed by a crushing defeat of the Carranzista army and the promise of fighting the hated "Gringos," are reported marching to Chihuahua City today to enthrone their renegade leader.

From Chihuahua City, the scene of his early triumphs when he first changed his title from bandit to patriot, Villa hopes to deliver the final crushing blows that will force Don Venustiano Carranza out of Mexico.

This accomplished, he plans to begin the rule of Mexico with iron law. Chief among the pledges of his prospective government will be unceasing warfare on Americans.

News of Villa's latest triumphs and his move toward Chihuahua City was brought to the border today by refugees from that section of the country. They brought with them pictures of disorder and rioting in Chihuahua City itself and confirmed reports of General Jacinto Trevino's antagonistic stand toward Carranza and Minister of War Obregon.

TREVINO BIG FACTOR.

Trevino's attitude, now that he has forced the first chief and his War Minister to back down in their plans to depose him as ruler of the forces of the north, is a matter of conjecture. But his first victory over his superiors and the fact that he has an army of 25,000 men at his back cannot but have their effect on his plans.

Trevino, it is known, received Villa's ultimatum four days ago, telling him if Chihuahua was not surrendered on

12 ADRIFT IN OPEN BOATS

Thousands of Monsters Snap at Survivors of Sunken Steamer — Captain and 8 Men Missing

Philadelphia, July 17.—Shipwrecked in a sea alive with sharks, adrift forty hours in battered small boats while thousands of sharks whipped back and forth about their frail craft, rescued at last in a roaring sea by the United Fruit Company liner Jose, twelve survivors of the wrecked coal steamer Ramos arrived here today.

Their ship was battered to pieces by a hurricane that caught them fifty miles off the Bahamas. The captain and eight men went in one small boat, which it is believed was lost. No trace of it has been found. At least one man, perhaps two, were taken by sharks in the turmoil of getting into the boats and away from the sinking ship.

The survivors were headed by P. H. Ostram, first officer. The list included: G. Arit, Newark, N. J., chief engineer; R. T. Green, New York, an officer; J. Cortel, a fireman; S. Hanbrey, a mess boy, New York; P. A. Oester, an assistant steward; N. C. Mitchell, Key West, Fla.; W. Schillman, R. Anderson, R. Bruce, I. Carlson and Patrick Pearson, stokers and oilers, who are from Philadelphia.

BIG SHARK SNATCHES STEWARD.

According to the narrative of the survivors they saw the steward of the ship snatched under by a shark when he fell into the water as the lifeboats were being put over in a terrific sea.

"His name was Hendrix," said the second officer of the ship. "He went under as if a hand had snatched him and we saw the shark carry him down."

Captain John McGoldrick, master of the vessel, left the wreck in the last of three lifeboats with ten of its men. When last seen his lifeboat was going to pieces, and the water was clipped in a hundred places about them by the fins of giant man-eaters.

The Ramos began to go to pieces early Wednesday morning. Her wireless had been searching the sea for ten hours with calls for help. The first lifeboat was put down early Tuesday morning. The others followed within a few hours, as soon as the sea permitted their launching. The captain was the last to leave.

MONSTERS FOLLOWED JOSE.

The Jose saw a light before dawn and slowed down to investigate. With daylight she saw two boatloads of naked men bobbing on mountainous seas dead ahead. The fruit steamer stood by two hours getting the survivors aboard. Most of them were prostrated and two of the men were unconscious. The sharks turned from the lifeboat and followed the Jose for miles.

A. O. H. Convention Opens With Ball Tonight; 5,000 Now Here

Delegates gathered in Boston today for the national convention of the A. O. H. and the national convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The conventions open with a ball tonight at the Copley-Plaza.

It was estimated 5,000 delegates and families were in Boston this morning, and 20,000 were expected in the next twenty-four hours.

The big feature of the convention, it was predicted today, would be the contest over the place for next year's session.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cox of Oakland, Cal., led the fight to take the convention there; while from Norfolk, Va., John E. Healey and John T. Flood came to fight for Wilmington, Del., as the next convention city.

The delegates in town today occupied themselves as they chose. Some went to Concord and Lexington, some to the City Hall to see Mayor Curley, some to the ball game and others about private business held by the Russians in the Champagne district last night, but were repulsed.

A brilliant counter attack was delivered by the Russian soldiers.

Another contingent of Russian soldiers landed at Brest today to reinforce the allied army.

On the Verdun front in the region of Fleury, the French have made further progress in their offensive operations.

There have been intense bombardments on the Somme front, where the Germans have tried to hinder with their artillery the organization of the new front positions around Biaches and Hill No. 97.

The text of the official communique follows:

Between the Oise and the Aisne a strong reconnoitring party of the enemy was dispersed by our fire at Moulin-Sous-Touvent.

"In Champagne a surprise attack by the Germans on a trench in the sector held by the Russians was repulsed by a counter-attack which inflicted losses on our enemy.

"On the Verdun front the night was comparatively quiet except at Hill No. 304, where there was sharp rifle firing. West of Fleury detachments of our troops made some progress. They captured three machine guns from the Germans.

"In Lorraine, after a somewhat extended bombardment, the enemy made two attacks against our positions in the region of Ham. There two attacks were repulsed. Some prisoners remained in our hands.

"No important happened on the rest of the front."

Kaiser Reported on Western Front

Amsterdam, July 17.—Emperor William is at the German front, according to a dispatch from Berlin. It stated that official announcement had been made in the German capital to the effect that the Kaiser spent all day Sunday in the fighting area, listening to reports of the German commander-in-chief on the course of operations against the French and British armies.

The Kaiser has retired seven generals on the western front, this big shake-up indicating that he is feeling some anxiety over the fighting in France. Five of the retired generals, Von Emdow, Von Wrochwski, Goltke, Gramer and Von Bur, will leave the army on pension, while Von Kliest and Krahmer have been given ahme commands.

Italians Halt Drive of Teuton Forces.

By International News Service.

Rome, July 17.—Despite stormy weather, strong Austro-Hungarian attacks were renewed along the whole front in the upper Posina valley, but all have been repulsed, the Italian War Office announced today. Heavy fighting is in progress in that district, where the Teutons seem to have received reinforcements. The upper Posina lies in the mountains northwest of Arsiero.

The official report reads:

"In the upper Posina area the enemy delivered a heavy attack, supported by the concentrated fire of artillery, between Col Santo and Morte Toreo. We counter-attacked and in several hand-to-hand fight repulsed the enemy along the whole front.

"Between Toto Valley and Posina the enemy attempted to surround our positions northwest of Monte Pellegrin but was frustrated. Hostile artillery shelled Cortina, Ampasso. We retaliated in the Drave Valley. There has been intermittent artillery firing on the Isonzo front and on the upper But at the head of the Raccolana Valley.

"On Saturday our air craft bombarded camps in the Folgaria area. The enemy displayed aerial activity, bombarding points in the Camonica and Adige valleys, but there was no casualities.

"Our batteries drove off hostile machines that were making for Bergamo, Beolia and Padua. During the night five hydroplanes bombarded Treviso, killing one person and wounding several. One machine was downed with the death of the two occupants."

Berlin War Office Admits Allied Gains

By International News Service.

Berlin, July 17.—Withdrawal of the German army of General von Linsengen in Volhynia (on the eastern front) is admitted in an official statement issued by the War Office today. The report states that the Germans checked the Russians on the Lutsk front, but withdrew behind the Lipa (Loga) River.

On the western front, the report says, the British succeeded in penetrating Ovillers Wood (on the Somme front). In the Verdun sector French attacks on the east side of the Meuse were repulsed.

The text of the official report follows:

"East front—Southwest of Luck (Lutsk) the Russian advance was checked by the forces of General von Linsengen, but in order to shorten the line of defence the German troops were withdrawn behind the Lipa without interference from the enemy. At other points the Russians were completely repulsed.

"West front.—Between the sea and the Ancre the English at many points increased their fire to great violence. In the Somme district the artillery fire has been very severe on both sides.

"The English penetrated Ovillers wood. There has been lively fighting south of Biaches, otherwise the efforts of the enemy failed before our curtains of fire or could not be developed for the same reason. The number of prisoners taken by us at Biaches has been increased to four officers and 246 men.

"More extensive French attacks were commenced on the 13th east of the Meuse, and continued until the following morning, but all were unsuccessful, and at some points the enemy lost ground. On the remainder of the front there were no incidents of importance.

"An attempt by the French to advance following a mine explosion north of Quiches was checked. We carried out mine explosions with good results at Combres Hill."

WAR SUMMARY

After consolidating their positions, the British launched the third attack in their big drive north of the Somme and report a substantial gain.

The first British attack in two days captured about sixteen square miles of territory from the Germans. About four square miles was subsequently lost under German counter attacks during the past two weeks.

The second British attack, Saturday and Sunday, two weeks after the first one, captured about seven square miles of territory from the Germans, of which a small portion has already been relinquished under counter attacks.

Net gain for first two attacks, about twenty square miles or a little less. The French, in the same period, have captured about sixteen or eighteen square miles from the Germans. The French operated on a six-mile front, the British on a sixteen-mile front.

The French at Verdun have pushed back the Germans somewhat to the west of Fleury, and are evidently massing men to prevent or defeat a German attack on Fort Souville. The French gains have not as yet become large enough to be measured on the map.

The Russian troops in France having revealed their presence by trench raids, the Germans attacked the Russian line today, and the Russians repulsed the attack and counter-attacked. Neither effort met any success.

In Volhynia the Russians report a further gain, which is conceded by Berlin. Over 8,000 prisoners were taken by the Russians, Petrograd says.

French Aviators Bombard Sofia.

By International News Service.

Paris, July 17.—French aviators have again bombarded Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria, the French War Office announced today. The following official report on the operations of the Army of Orient, whose headquarters are at Saloniea, was issued:

"From July 1 to July 15 there were artillery actions east of the Vardar, which often became rather violent. An outpost engagement of no importance took place July 2 north of Kalinovo.

"West of the Vardar in the mountainous region in the direction of the Jumnitza and Osin our patrols and light detachments have had frequent skirmishes with the enemy whom they have always compelled to retreat.

"Our aviation corps developed great activity, bombarding particularly military establishments at Sofia and enemy encampments at Strumika and Bordanser, as well as thrice attacking Fort Rupel. An enemy squadron on July 9 bombarded without result our camps in the Topcin region. Two enemy aeroplanes were brought down on July 8 and July 11 by our artillery. They fell in flames within our lines."

EXCITING NIGHT ON PATROL

By BERT FORD.

Camp Cotton, El Paso, July 17.—Fifteen Mexican smugglers, two of them women, were turned back in the wee hours Sunday morning by outposts of Company K of Clinton of the Ninth Regiment.

The outpost lines of the Second Massachusetts Brigade had been extended to cover five miles beyond the original camp outposts and the Clinton company was assigned to the end of the line. To the Second Battalion of the Ninth Regiment, commanded by Major Frank L. Donovan of Lawrence, was given the honor of defending the new posts.

GUARD THE FORD.

The Rio Grande makes a zigzag bend there and can be forded at this time of year in several places. The men saw many Mexicans pass during the early part of the night, challenged them and found they were entitled to continue their journey. A full moon made everything light as day.

Hour after hour passed. A mounted man appeared, and some distance behind, were two others. Corporal John Mooney, was lying with the relief squad, his shoes off while the picket man watched the other side of the border. Mooney saw the mounted man, caught up his rifle and ran to challenge them.

The horseman in the lead, pulled up his mount, saluted and gave them the countersign. It was General E. Leroy Sweetser, brigadier commander, trailed by two members of his staff. He was riding the new lines late to see how matters were going as a warning had been given from base headquarters that a band of Mexican smugglers was apt to cross in the vicinity guarded by the Clinton company.

TWO WOMEN TRIED TO CROSS.

After that two Mexicans tried to cross into Mexico with bags. They were stopped and turned back, mumbling oaths. Others carrying large bags of food were also stopped. A Mexican with a loaf of bread and a cantaloupe was permitted to cross into Mexico as that amount of food was considered personal. But others had food supplies which were looked upon as suspicious.

Among these were the two women. Several of them had hides. All were searched for ammunition.

It was all exciting for boys from a quiet New England town, even if there was nothing severer than curses, breathed in Spanish, and ugly scowls. The men of G Company and F and M also served throughout the twenty-four hours in a manner that brought favorable mention. Major Donovan rode to the outposts and personally had a hand in the turning back of some of the smugglers.

The second battalion was relieved at 6 o'clock in the evening. Meals were sent to outposts in auto trucks, including cans of hot coffee and ice water.

During the afternoon outposts and

Mexico Recalls Volunteers; War Danger Passed

Mexico City, July 17.

FOLLOWING announcement that diplomatic negotiations had succeeded in averting any danger of war between the United States and Mexico, military commanders in Mexico today directed volunteers who answered the call to arms when hostilities were considered imminent, to return to their homes. Each commander addressed a manifesto of thanks to the volunteers, in which he assured all citizens that danger of war was over.

Camp Cotton were swept by the severest sand storm since the Bay State troops reached the border. The sand was blinding to suffocation. It clouded interiors of tents and shacks. It lasted twenty minutes and was accompanied by thunder and lightning, but not a drop of rain. In the evening, however, the Massachusetts soldiers welcomed their third border shower and it was a corker, knocking off fifteen points on the camp thermometer, which showed 104 at 3 p. m.

From camp stools in the far centre Colonel Edward L. Logan and officers of his staff watched the Sunday afternoon baseball game of the Ninth's nine against the Twenty-third regulars. Last week the regulars beat the Ninth by a run and yesterday the Boston players broke even with a score of 12 to 12 in seven innings.

CHAPLAIN O'CONNOR BETTER.

Chaplain O'Connor held a field mass at 7:30 yesterday. It was his first public appearance since his few days of illness from ptomaine poisoning. A congregation of 2,000 soldiers knelt on the desert around the little altar.

The worshippers came from the Ninth, Eighth, Fifth Massachusetts Infantry and the Thirty-first Michigan, and the Seventh and Twenty-third Regulars. Movie operators filmed the service and Sabbath camp scenes.

During the sand storm the new shelter erected at the head of the Clinton company proved a refuge. It is built of wood with sides that open and the men not only sit there but write letters on the long tables and use it as a club room. The Clinton Rifle Club, made up of business men, gave the money for the shelter, which other companies envy.

Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears sent a large supply of good things to the Ninth Saturday, including sweet chocolate, condensed milk, toilet articles, colored eyeglasses for invalids, and other useful things for which Colonel Logan and his men feel grateful. Page & Shaw sent 150 pounds of candy in one-pound boxes.

Captain Foley's company of Worcester had a chicken dinner, with ice-cream and apple pie, and many of the headquarters staff were guests.

Paul Hines, a Boston reporter, a private in D Company of the Ninth, has been appointed clerk in Adjutant Murphy's headquarters and is said to be in line for promotion.

These members of D, Ninth, were promoted from corporal to sergeant: Paul J. Campbell of Dorchester, P. E. Gavin of Roxbury and Frank O'Neil of Dorchester; privates to corporals: William Lecroix of Dorchester, John J. Riley of South Boston, Joseph Hughes of Dorchester, Joseph L. Plouffe of Jamaica Plain, William Martell of South Boston, William Kenneally of Dorchester, C. J. Driscoll of the South End and Edward G. Crowley of Roxbury.

FIFTH MARCHES TO ITS FIELD SERVICES

By HARRY A. BENWELL.

El Paso, July 17.—With the Fifth on the border. The men of the Fifth who are doing border patrol spent a very quiet Sunday. Church service was held at Camp Cotton by Chaplain Lyman Rollins and also at the Cement Works.

The services at the camp were attended by headquarters—the supply company—Companies F, K and L, who are still there, and the thirty-three recruits who arrived last night.

Colonel Willis W. Hover and his staff together with part of non-commissioned staff marched to the church service to the music of the new band of seventeen pieces, which arrived with the recruits. Drum Major Walter Thomas, formerly of the Eight Regiment, and a member of the old Eighth bandsmen, is in the new Fifth band.

After the service at camp, Chaplain Rollins boarded a motor truck and hurried to the camp at the Cement Works, where A, E and the machine gun companies are stationed, guarding the International Railroad bridge. Some of the men of G Company, stationed two miles away, crossed the mountain and attended the services. Chaplain Rollins spoke very plainly to the men about the temptations they may encounter, his discussal being applied particularly to the recruits.

The band gave a concert at Camp Cotton in the evening which was enjoyed immensely. It came at the end of a severe electrical storm which was preceded by tremendous heat, dust storms and rain.

The Fifth has no outposts at Camp Cotton except a detail from L Company which is sent to the Cameron stock yards each night and morning. At the other stations of the Fifth the usual commanbulistic conditions obtained.

At Las Cruces, where H Company, Captain George T. Latimer, is stationed, nothing of interest happened. The town is forty-three miles from the border and is in New Mexico, but more than 60 per cent. of the inhabitants are Mexicans and many of them Villa sympathizers. It is said that former soldiers of Villa are in the Mexican colony and, according to Captain Latimer, Villa's paymaster, General Salazar, frequently visits his family who live in the town. Their home is the nicest house in the camp.

Las Cruces is the centre of a fruit-growing country, the seat of an agricultural college and the home of Loretto Academy, a Catholic school for girls. The men of the company are all pleased with their lot. Lieutenant O'Brien said that the natives had been very kind.

Carranzistas Loot American Ranch.

This act is expected to result in further demands upon Governor De la Huerta and General Calles, the Carranza leaders in Sonora. Advices from Agua Prieta state that these officials have been served with notice that the depradations must stop and that there must be more definite action than a mere reference of complaints to Mexico City.

EIGHTH PICKETS GUARD THREE MILE LINE

By HARRY A. BENWELL.

Camp Cotton, El Paso, July 17.—For the first time since the arrival of the Eighth Regiment a front three and one-half miles long was guarded by outposts. The departure to Fort Bliss of the Seventh Regiment and the withdrawal of outpost of the Twenty-third Regiment, left sentries on each flank of the camp of the Massachusetts regiments to be guarded.

The duty fell to the Second Battalion, Major Harry B. Campbell. This battalion includes Companies F, K, L and M. Companies F, K and L took care of the outposts, and Company M was held in reserve. The line of outposts stretches from the plant of the Texas Oil Company, far over on left flank of the command, in a semicircle, to the stockyards.

This is a very important country and up to the time of the arrival of the troops was not circled. In this district there are a number of well-defined fords crossing the Rio Grande and many attempts at smuggling are made.

STORM SWEEPS CAMP.

The camp was visited by a storm today, which blew down the fly tent wings, that Lieutenant William A. McDade, mess officer for the week, had erected over the kitchen. The kitchen is working in fine shape. At noon 495 men of Major Frank S. Elliott's battalion were fed in twenty-one minutes. The men came up to the kitchen in two lines, one on each side, and, under the direction of Sergeant George Robinson, were given rations consisting of roast beef, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, chocolate pudding, white sauce, and coffee.

At night 498 men were fed by Lieutenant McDade in thirteen and one-half minutes. The menu included lemonade, bread and butter, coffee, sauce and vegetable stew. Two more of the rolling kitchens are on the way, Colonel Frank A. Graves stated today.

The Colonel stated that he had heard that ex-officers and friends of the regiment arranged to assist the regiment in the field and help needy families of enlisted men. Among the ex-officers are Colonel Edward H. Eldredge, Captain Stephen W. Sleeper, Captain Richard Lawrence and Lieutenant Joseph O. Proctor. Mrs. Frances Gray of Nahant is also interested.

Captain Charles H. Nandle, commander of Company F, who is now staying in El Paso, was a guest at the officers' mess tonight. This mess, run by Lieutenant H. B. Dillingham, assisted by Lieutenant Walter Austin, is a universal success. The Chinese cooks turn out fine food, and after meals a group of officers gathered around the piano, which is played by Captain F. P. Wanson.

The stables were led by Major William J. Keville, Lieutenant Karl Bailey of the medical corps, Captain Gates of the same outfit and Lieutenant Dillingham. Many of the songs were written—that is, the words were—by Captain H. Douglas Cushing and Lieutenant George R. Eliot of C Company.

RECEPTION TO RECRUITS.

Captain Campbell, who came down with the fifty-six recruits, got a great reception, as he is extremely popular. Four of the recruits who arrived under guard for leaving train at Kansas City were today released by the commanding officer. These recruits were part of the sixty-eight received by Captain James H. McDade of E Company, who got more than any company commander. Today Captain McDade was compelled to place "Swats" Woods, another recruit, under arrest, and he will be tried by a general court for enlisting under an assumed name. It developed that the man had been dishonorably discharged from the regular service.

The association of ex-officers and friends is contemplating the building of mess halls for the three battalions. Today forty-five men reported to Colonel Graves as musicians, and he hopes to have a fine band shortly.

Inoculation of Rookies Completed

By JOHN B. ATKINSON.

Plattsburg, July 17.—Boston's contingent of business men in the civilian soldier camp here failed to get full holiday Sunday. In the morning they were marched to the hospital where the surgeons completed the physical examinations and inoculated each man with the typhoid serum. This has had wonderful results at the camp, and not a single case of typhoid fever has appeared in the twenty thousand who have been treated with it.

In the afternoon the men were given a short layoff and then put through dummy rifle practice and sub calibre work. The work was hard but interesting, and the men struggled hard with their Springfields. The seniors are out to equal the record made on the rifle range by the juniors last week. This is a hard task, as the Boston juniors' work has attracted the admiration of all the army officers.

A number of Boston men received special honors in marksmanship. They include Ed Ryan of Revere, Donald Webster, 227 Beacon street, George Eagleheart of Boylston street, Clarke Draper of Milton, and several others.

During the night the Boston men were given a taste of the joys of army life when they were forced to turn out in a terrific rainstorm to dig trenches and tighten tent ropes. The men were kept busy for over an hour and received a thorough drenching.

How the U. S. Gets the Best Armor For Its Battleships

To the People:

The armor plate in our fighting ships constitutes a vital factor in national defense.

The United States is today equipping its men-of-war with the best armor plate made anywhere in the world—and pays for it less than any other great naval power.

The Price the U. S. Is Paying

The United States is today paying $425 a ton for armor, an amount substantially lower than is paid by Japan, Austria, Germany, England, or France.

England buys its armor from five privately owned plants, and is now paying $505 a ton. Germany has five privately owned plants, and is paying $490 a ton. Japan is the only country with a government plant, and yet armor cost her $490 a ton.

The specifications in the United States are much more rigid and the wages paid are very much higher than those prevailing in any foreign country.

The Bureau of Ordnance of the Navy, in a report, dated June 28, 1913, said:

The Quality the U. S. Is Getting

"The superior excellence of American armor is due to the fact that the Bureau of Ordnance has consistently and persistently demanded from armor makers the best armor they could produce . . . . . and also to the fact that

"The Armor makers have honestly and conscientiously striven to produce THE BEST POSSIBLE ARMOR."

We offer to continue producing armor—

First Of a QUALITY to be determined by the rigid requirements of the Navy Department, and Second At a PRICE to be fixed by the Federal Trade Commission.

The entire situation is thus left absolutely in the control of the Government.

UNDER SUCH CONDITIONS, IS THERE ANY OCCASION TO WASTE $11,000,000 IN BUILDING A GOVERNMENT ARMOR PLANT?

VILLA'S ARMY MARCHES ON CHIHUAHUA

the appearance of Villa forces the town would be looted and all Carranza officers of any rank whatsoever would be executed. It had been insinuated that Trevino was only too willing to welcome Villa and join forces with him.

This was before Trevino's display of his mastery over Carranza and Obregon, however. Now it seems more likely that he will attempt to start a revolution of his own and thus bring on a three-cornered fight that would exact Mexico into more chapters of revolution.

At every engagement Villa's commanders flung superior forces against the de facto government followers. Every force sent to disperse the bandit army has been hurled back shattered and broken. Trainloads of wounded were brought into Chihuahua city, while rail communication still was possible.

SPLIT CARRANZA FORCES.

Now Villa is reported to have divided the Carranza forces completely. This separates the army of the north from its base of supplies.

Villa is reported at Cerro Gordo, fifty miles below Parral. He has gained a furious driving campaign to regain his power in Mexico and is spurring his peon followers into action as only "Pancho" Villa has been able to inspire the Mexicans.

Between battles he is sending out great raiding parties who are devastating the country, confiscating supplies and impressing peons as soldiers. The impressing system is a very simple one. The soldiers is given his choice between joining or having his ears sliced.

The Chihuahua arrivals at the border prophesy that Villa will have little trouble entering Chihuahua City, regardless of Trevino's plans. The Villista population of Chihuahua City is—and it is known to be fair to excess—of any other faction or group—already is preparing for the reception of its chosen leader. Anti-Villa plots and minor uprisings have seriously hampered the Carranza government.

With the appearance of Villa's army in the hills south of Chihuahua City it is predicted that the Villista population will rise and harass the defending force with an attack from within.

Rain and a typical south rain storm swept over this country during the past twenty-four hours and varied the monotony which the militiamen may have felt in camp life. The camps are settling down to business with soldier-like precision, however.

Declares Mexico Has Army of 354,000 Men

By International News Service.

Havana, July 17.—"Mexico has an army of 250,000 infantry and 104,000 cavalry, all trained men. This army has sufficient ammunition. The government has $15,000,000 in its treasury. Its leaders can view with equanimity any foreign intervention."

These statements are made by an English war correspondent who went to Mexico City when hostilities between Mexico and the United States appeared to be only a matter of hours. He has investigated the situation in the Mexican capital, has interviewed Minister of War Obregon, bankers and business men. In a dispatch transmitted by this correspondent today he reveals that the Mexican army now has an aviation corps commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Salinas and that the Mexican army is being improved daily. He quotes General Obregon as follows on the recent crisis with the United States:

"I received orders from the First Chief (Carranza) to make preparations for the protection of the border from prowling bandits. I have taken such necessary steps as far as possible and will continue to do so. His order still stands. If the United States does the same the end of all differences is in sight.

"We are adequately armed and provisioned to compel obedience in a short time from the bandits and evil-wishers of the government who are causing internal trouble and desire intervention. They are enemies of Mexico.

"It is untrue that during the crisis we invited Villa, Zapata and other bandits to join us against the common enemy. An edict was issued to all Mexicans to flock to the standard, but that excluded those who placed themselves outside the pale of the law.

"I have no doubt we can control the internal trouble and guarantee the safety of foreigners in outlying places. Mines and other industries can proceed under our supervision. Foreign capital is in any case injured.

U. S. Expected to Postpone Conference

By International News Service.

Washington, July 17.—Postponement of the pending "direct negotiations" between the United States and the de facto government of Mexico today appeared almost inevitable. Officials admitted that if the unofficial reports of the increasing bandit activities along and near the border are confirmed, it would be impossible to discuss the withdrawal of American troops at this time.

Another reason given for the suggested postponement is the reported defection of General Trevino. He is in command of the Carranza regular army in northern Mexico. Denials from the Mexican embassy have met every suggestion that the leader has revolted against the Carranza rule. Numerous persist here, however, that Trevino has renounced Carranza, and these reports have reached the War and State Departments. If the defections of them will make it almost certain that the preliminary arrangements for the proposed direct negotiations will be dropped, at least temporarily.

Pending further developments the Navy Department has suspended its policy of gradual withdrawal of American ships from Mexican waters.

A few of the destroyers and fast cruisers assigned to Mexican duty already have been withdrawn, but the others will remain at their posts in Mexican waters, or in readiness to reach there at short notice until the situation in northern Mexico is definitely known through official reports.

Seven Rookies Lost on the Way to Columbus, N. M.

By THOMAS FRANCIS PHELAN.

Columbus, N. M., July 17.—Seven adventurous recruits of the Second Regiment failed to report in the roll call when the contingent with which I sweltered the longin of the country detrained here at the Second's camp.

These recruits were lost somewhere back in Texas. They were visiting with a Minnesota regiment and managed to be left behind when our train pulled out. At about every station the men in the place they were left messages for their commanding officers were received saying that they were aboard the Minnesota train and urging the engineer to catch up.

They continued to keep several stops behind us all the way into El Paso. From El Paso they must have had difficulty in getting train accommodations to judge by their frantic telegrams telling of their efforts to get here. We expect to see them show up footsore and weary, with a sad tale of their long walk from El Paso. Our trip, by train, from El Paso took three hours.

A good-sized pig created merriment for boys from Springfield. The razorback was captured by Sergeant William J. Bishop and four rookies, after a spirited chase through a mile of prairie land in a northern section of Texas. The owner set the hog at liberty.

Private Houston of A Company, a musician of note, was the life of the party during the journey. He has a cornet and his potpourri of airs attracted the attention of Rastus, porter in the officers' car, who forgot his duties and mingled with the boys of Company A.

Funston Advised to Seize Railroad.

McAllen, Tex., July 17.—General Funston has been advised by the Quartermaster's Department of this district that the only way of solving the food problem that is harassing the National Guardsmen encamped in this section of the border is to have the government take over and operate the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico Railroad.

Inasmuch as the railroads seems quite unable to expedite matters it is considered certain that some thing radical will be done.

On the single-track line from Harlingen, for instance, only one freight train has appeared since Tuesday. That passed McAllen on Thursday, although due Wednesday.

Only such staples as potatoes and canned goods are to be had in the camps now.

At Brownsville it was announced that the Government is sending 250 motor trucks to this section to supplement the work of the railway.

2ND REGIMENT RECRUITS SOAKED

By WILLARD H. DAVIS.

Columbus, N. M., July 17. — More Massachusetts troops arrived on the border. Some of them detrained at the Second's camp. Hardly had they detrained before they were baptised by one of the worst thunder showers that has visited these parts for months. Without ponchos, without any protection, the newcomers worked like trojans to get their pyramidals up, but the rain beat them to it. Consequently the boys' impression of their new home was rather a damp one.

The nineteen coaches crawled up the steep grade of the vast desert, just west of the camp, the entire Second Regiment turned out to greet the "just ink" as they dubbed them. The band was on the job, too.

The lads detrained in an orderly manner. They looked splendid in their new equipment. They obeyed the quick commands of the officers and in every way their debut was one that called forth much favorable comment from all sides.

They are a bit larger than the boys already stationed here and the only thing that would remind one that they were a little new was the bright blue tat cords.

Otherwise they were well bronzed, as might well be expected after their service at Camp Whitney. Outside of the new hat cords they looked just as hardened as their mates who have been baking in the sun of the New Mexico deserts for two weeks.

Hand shakes, slaps on the backs, an occasional "rough-house," peculiar sounding nicknames, in fact, all kinds of greetings were exchanged.

It was laughable to see the lads "slop" around in the dobe mud. It was all new to them. They couldn't understand why the rain would not sink into the ground. Suddenly their feet commenced to get heavy. They wondered at this, too, until some of the lads who had been puzzled by the same mystery before, put the boys wise. It was the thick red clay sticking to the soles of their shoes.

Trench digging was the first thing in order after the bulky pyramidals were up. This was done to keep the water from forming young lakes in the middle of their tents.

RURAL CREDITS BILL SIGNED BY WILSON

Washington, July 17.—In the presence of a dozen Senators and Representatives, President Wilson today signed the rural credits bill, giving to the farmers of the country for the first time a law under which they can borrow money from the government.

"I cannot go through the simple ceremony of signing this bill without expressing the feeling I have in signing it," the President said, just before he affixed his signature. "It is a feeling of profound satisfaction not only, but of real gratitude, that we have completed this piece of legislation, which I hope will be immensely beneficial to the farmers of the country."

"The farmers, it seems to me, have occupied hitherto a singular position of disadvantage. They have not had the same freedom to get credit on their real assets that others have had who were in manufacturing and commercial enterprises, and while they sustained our life, they did not in the same degree with some others share this benefit of that life.

"Therefore, this bill, along with the very liberal provisions of the federal reserve act, puts them upon an equality with all others who have genuine assets and makes the great credit of the country available to them.

"One cannot but feel that this is delayed justice to them and cannot but feel that it is a very gratifying thing to play any part in doing this act of justice. I look forward to the benefits of this bill, not with extravagant expectations, but with confident expectations that it will be a very wide-reaching benefit, and incidentally that it will be of advantage to the investing community. For I can imagine no more satisfactory and solid investments than this system will afford those who have money to use."

SALEM'S MARSHAL ATTACKS COUNCIL

City Marshal Harrington of Salem, in reply to the charges of laxity in law enforcement made by the council last Thursday night, today issued a statement defending his work and gave warning that "hereafter no member of the city government will be allowed to intercede on behalf of a law-breaker."

Complete Plans To Fight Infant Plague in U. S.

By International News Service.

Washington, July 17.—The public health service today completed its plans for prevention of the interstate spread of infantile paralysis from New York. This plan will be put into immediate operation if Congress authorizes the appropriations which the health service has asked.

Dr. William C. Rucker and Dr. J. W. Kerr of the health service today appeared before the House committee on appropriations and asked for $35,000 to use in the campaign to prevent the spread of the disease and $50,000 for employing additional assistant surgeons.

As soon as the money is in sight, Senior Surgeon Charles E. Banks, now in New York, will begin the work of inspection and notification. Under this system health officers throughout the country will be advised of the departure from New York of any person less than sixteen years of age.

CONVICT LUCHNICK IN POLICE COURT

Abraham Luchnick was today found guilty in the Municipal Court of larceny by false pretenses from David Sokal of the West End. He was charged with securing money from Sokal on four occasions on the plea that the money was to go to Patrolman Bernard Fay and Lieutenant Alpheus W. Parker for police protection.

On three counts Judge Brackett found him not guilty, but on the fourth—a charge of securing $50 in August, 1915—he was convicted and sentenced to three months in the House of Correction. On appeal, he was held in $500.

FOUR MEN HELD FOR ROBBERY AT HULL

Five young men, said to be notorious pickpockets, made a daring holdup of an aged man and robbed him of a pocketbook containing $100 in front of the eyes of Chief Reynolds and Patrolmen Stephens and Manville of the Hull police, just as a train of the New Haven road pulled into the Whitehead station at Nantasket Beach.

Quick action on the part of the three policemen resulted in the arrest of four of the men. The fifth escaped. The victim of the attack was uninjured and the wallet containing the money was recovered, buried in the sand near the scene of the arrest.

Chief Reynolds and the two patrolmen were standing at the station as the train pulled in. They noticed the five young men alight and go toward rear of the train on the opposite side of the station.

As the last car the old man was in on the point of boarding the train when the five men are alleged to have jumped upon him, knocked him down and snatched the wallet from his inside pocket.

They then ran up the steps of the cars and down the steps on the other side into the waiting arms of the police officers. A desperate struggle ensued, the officers managing to hold four of the men while the fifth got away. During the struggle the one who had the wallet buried it in the sand, where it was found by the police.

They were taken to the Hull police station and booked on the charge of robbery. According to the police, the men are all old-timers and gave fictitious names.

Fined for Attack.

Bernard Murphy of South Boston, said to be an employee of a Boston stock broker, was fined $10 in Chelsea Court today on a charge of assaulting Metropolitan Park Policeman O'Connor when the latter was making an arrest. Murphy appealed and was held in $100.

Let us send you free, the reprint which the Department of the Interior has permitted us to make of the splendid Yellowstone National Park booklet shown in the illustration above, which the U. S. Government issued to inform tourists of the sights which repay a visit.

"Distinctive Characteristics" of the Park are listed in this Government book as follows: "More geysers than in all the rest of the world together—boiling springs—mud volcanoes—petrified forests—Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, remarkable for gorgeous coloring—large lakes—many large streams and waterfalls—vast wilderness inhabited by deer, elk, bison, moose, antelope, bear, mountain sheep, beaver, etc.; constituting greatest wild bird and animal preserve in the world—altitude 6,000 to 11,000 feet—exceptional fishing."

Two-thirds of all who visited the Yellowstone during 1915 went via Union Pacific System because by this route Colorado and Salt Lake City may be seen on the way without additional fare, also because the trip to Yellowstone is made conveniently on the way to California or the Pacific North Coast.

Yellowstone Park is now open—why not go? And as the first step in planning your trip write for this free book.

AUTOMOBILE STOCKS are making more money for the investor than any other stocks on the market. Had you invested a few hundred dollars at the beginning with Ford, Hupp, the Reo, Saxon, Chalmers, Paige-Detroit, Chandler, White or any of several others, you would have a tidy fortune to-day.

To-day the automobile industry is established along permanent lines and to-day it is paying bigger profits than ever before in the history of the business. It is a solid fact, however, that the big money has been made by those who had the foresight to get in on the ground floor with a newly established company. It is very true that some large profits have been made on the Stock Exchange during the past few months, but it is equally true that much larger profits have been made by those who bought these stocks when they were first put out and the companies were being organized.

We are the largest exclusive dealers in automobile securities in the country. We do not handle any other stocks or bonds. We devote our entire time and attention to the automobile security market. For that reason we believe that we are in a better position to furnish facts and information and advice regarding automobile securities than any other brokerage or banking house in the United States.

Within the last few months Willys-Overland has advanced $130 per share.

Reo has advanced over $30 per share.

Chevrolet was selling for less than $100 a few months ago, and is now over $200 per share. and if you had bought Paige-Detroit you would have more than doubled your money.

The above advice is worth while and can be verified through any broker.

Regardless of the merit of other automobile securities, we to-day advise the purchase of Emerson.

We urge all of our clients and readers to act promptly, for the price is on the eve of a big advance.

The books of this Company are audited once every month by the American Audit Co.

This new five passenger touring car to sell at the low price of $395 is the result of 15 years' experience in the automobile business. Mr. Hupp has had long experience in the automobile world and was the original designer of the Cleveland automobile industry for the Ohio Motor Works to the manufacture of the Hupmobile. Mr. Hupp has been identified with the Olds Motor Works, the largest factory in the world, with the Olds Motor Works, he became one of the factors with Henry Ford in the production of the first 1000 Ford runabouts. In 1909 Mr. Hupp and associates organized the Hupp Motor Car Company, producing a car at $750 which at the time was home in price than the car which the Ford Company was turning out, as the Ford Company had advanced the price of their car to $675. Under Mr. Hupp's management the Hupp Company sales jumped from 500 cars the first year to 5,500 cars the second year, and an original investment of less than $50,000 grew to a cool million dollars by 1912, when Mr. Hupp disposed of his interest in the company, owing to the fact that the directors did not agree with the policy of his associates in bringing out a $1,000 closed car.

This same year Mr. Hupp organized the R. C. H. Corporation, which was capitalized at $100,000 and was known for its great success in the low priced car industry. Last year this company had contracts with dealers for 10,000 cars, and this year, making a total sale of 27,000 cars.

Mr. Hupp has, also, had some experience in manufacturing higher priced cars than he has always been keen, and if there is room for expansion, to make and sell the lowest priced car in the world. From these facts he has concentrated upon this $395 automobile alone, and at last has perfected a car so cheap to buy and so economical to operate that it can be owned and used by practically every family head in this country.

This car, designed by Mr. Hupp, is the result of fifteen years' effort to make a low priced car and at the same time to produce a car that would be a source of pride to its owner, a car that would be the equal in appearance and in every way of many high priced automobiles made in this country. The Emerson car itself will be as well built, good to look at and easy to ride in as the highest priced automobile made. It will have the most modern features with all late improvements, and will not only appeal to the pocketbook of the buyer, but to his pride as well. Low priced automobile transportation, suitable for the man or woman in any walk of life, is what the public has been appealed to from the days of Henry Ford. Imagine, if you will, the pride of ownership, yet its material upkeep power of operation will be so small as to create for the owner a feeling of satisfaction.

An itemized estimate of the cost of manufacturing and marketing these cars, based upon a production of 20,000 cars per season, beginning in 1917, indicates a net profit of $80 per car, after making a liberal allowance for the cost of advertising, selling, office, overhead expense, &c. After allowing the 7% dividend on the $2,000,000 issue of Preferred Stock, it leaves a net profit of $1,600,000, or sufficient to pay dividends of 20% per annum on the Common Stock, besides setting aside $480,000 for surplus. These figures are based on an estimate carefully compiled by men who know the automobile business and successful manufacturing.

This new car should average 20 to 27 miles or more to a gallon of gasoline, and at the present high price of gasoline this in itself is a splendid economy in the use of the car.

The profits in the automobile industry are now well known. The success of the car experiments has passed. Today the industry, the third largest in the United States, is on a substantial and highly profitable basis. The greatest profit is being made in the manufacture of low-priced cars. The demand for the car that we propose to build is apparent to every one. The cost of manufacture has been carefully worked out, and after proper allowance has been made for the increased price of raw material and for any emergencies that may arise, there should easily be a profit of $80 per car, based upon an annual production of only 20,000 cars. That this profit can be made on a production of 20,000 cars is proved by the fact that Henry Ford earlier in the history of the Ford Motor Co. with issued a sufficient capital to enable this company to go on a profit-earning basis with an annual output of 10,000 cars. The Emerson stock will soon become more valuable than the Preferred seems inevitable.

The Company proposes to adopt the most modern business methods, paying cash as it goes, and pursuing a conservative, business-like administration. Low prices and quantity production in manufacturing and selling will be adopted.

We can and offer to the public a very limited block of the Common Pre-Organization Promotion Stock at $6.00 per share. The par value is $10, and the stock will be fully paid and non-assessable. We can promptly, you can buy any number of shares from five (5) to five thousand (5,000) at $6.00 per share. Nature Acts Quickly to Protect the Skin

In giving X-Ray treatments physicians do not administer the full standard dose until the skin has been bronzed by the milder rays.

Nature acts quickly to throw over the skin a brown pigment of protection against the burning of tissue.

The rays of light that decompose tissue also decompose the protein (albumin) in beer, causing a skunky taste, but not in Schlitz.

The Brown Bottle Protects Schlitz

That's why it tastes so good. It's nutritive value is unimpaired.

A Wonder Play of Thrills, Charm and Romance

The "Mysteries of Myra" has the baffling, eager interest of a thrilling detective story; the swing and action of a tale of adventure by Dumas—the haunting fascination of a mystery story by Poe. And yet it is different from all these. For The "Mysteries of Myra" has the strange power and subtle charm that cannot be pictured in descriptive words.

You have to see it and follow its amazing episodes from week to week, as it carries you along in a new world of delight and charm, with its heart-quickening spirit of romance and expectant mystery.

The Mysteries of MYRA

Written by Charles W. Goddard, author of "The Perils of Pauline" and "The Exploits of Elaine," in collaboration with Hereward Carrington, the world's foremost investigator of puzzling mysteries. Produced by Wharton, Inc., under the personal direction of Theodore and Leo Wharton.

You have to see Howard Estabrook as the scientific detective and romantic adventurer to realize how far this distinguished actor outdistances a Sherlock Holmes, cunning in uncanny wisdom though he was.

You have to see winsome Jean Sothern as Myra to realize how appealing is the charm of lovely girlhood when it is the centre of a storm of evil intrigue and surging emotions—to leave you wondering how such a slip of a girl could rise to such heights of art.

It is no wonder, therefore, that millions of picture-play lovers throughout the land are watching eagerly for each new episode of the "Mysteries of Myra" and often—impatient—seeing the same episode twice. Begin with the first episode, if you haven't seen any yet. Then you can see the next at another theatre the same week, or see the next at the same theatre by waiting a week. But don't miss a one! Consult the list of theatres on this page.

FOUR KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

ter sporting goods merchant. His brother, Forrest W. Doten of Portland, Me., was slightly injured.

The victim's widow and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Forrest W. Doten, and the latter's twenty months old daughter Caroline escaped injury.

According to the police, Doten died in the actinf saving the baby's life.

The dead man was riding with his brother in the front seat and was holding the baby. As the car, then beyond control, rushed toward the embankment, Doten half rose to place the baby in the rear of the car, in front of the two women.

The auto overturned, the top of his seat crushing the merchant's chest. The brother was able to extricate himself and rescue the baby and the two women. The Worcester man groaned, but his rescue was impossible until a horse had been secured to right the car. Doten was then dead.

WOMEN AND BABY ESCAPE.

The two women and the baby were unscratched.

At Needham, Miss Ramey was struck by an auto driven by Daniel L. Comiskey, son of a wealthy Dwver contractor. She died early today at a Needham hospital.

In the Dedham Court today Comiskey was held in $2,000 for a hearing next Monday on a charge of manslaughter.

At North Adams, the Komyri girl was with Julia Mosolyed, nineteen, seated on an embankment eighteen feet below the roadway. An auto plunged over the embankment, injuring both. The motorist escaped injury.

The Komyri girl died at the North Adams Hospital today. Miss Mosolyed was reported in a critical condition.

PASTOR DENIES ASKING LEYDEN

Lawrence, July 17.—The Haverhill riot investigation by the Essex grand jury was resumed here today, the inquiry being transferred from Salem. After testifying before the grand jury, Rev. J. Franklin Babb, pastor of the United Congregational Church of Haverhill, during an argument outside the jury room, said:

"Any man who accuses me of being connected with the bringing of Thomas J. Leyden to Haverhill is a liar.

"I believe in free speech, but not in the principles of Leyden. I am willing to state under oath that Leyden told me he was pursued from Haverhill by autos on the night of the riot, and that shots were fired. I have understood that Leyden denied this."

CHINESE MERCHANTS IN MERRY OUTING

Four hundred Chinese merchants with their families went today from Boston to Manchester, N. H., by special train for their annual picnic, and from Manchester went to Pine Island Park, at Goffs Falls, four miles below the city. There Celestial merry-making got under way, with Chinese games, Chinese lunches and Chinese water sports.

The lunch basket was the favorite gathering place. The Chinese took to the water like ducks.

VICTIM OF THIEVES IS PHILOSOPHICAL

Abraham L. Joyce of Cambridge had his $60 savings in his pockets Saturday night. On Tremont street he met two strangers, and this was his "hih ka bibble" story to Captain Sullivan at police station 2 today: "I felt the hands of the men in my pockets, but I said nothing at the time. I knew the money was gone, but I went home and had a good sleep. But if the police want to find them, they can do so, and I'll help them prosecute the thieves. But I have no great desire to prosecute them myself."

Held for Assault.

John J. Leary, forty-six, in the Dorchester court today was held in $1,000 for a hearing July 28 on a charge of assaulting John Burke, fifty-six, in Dorchester Saturday night. At the City Hospital physicians said Burke might recover.

of Our Spring and Summer Stock of

Good Clothes, Hats, Furnishings and Shoes At Remarkable Price Reductions

High grade, known quality merchandise such as we offer in this sale has not been obtainable in the wholesale market at any price for the past two or three months. In the face of this unusual condition, we have hesitated to hold any Mark-Down Sale this season, but our policy of a complete clearance must be lived up to, so we now mark our stock down to insure its being entirely disposed of before the opening of a new season.

This sale involves our own stock and nothing else—no goods bought in for sale purposes, no antiques, no undesirables, no unknown qualities, but everything fresh and new this season and the best of its kind that the market affords.

Neither is this a collection of odds and ends and broken lots, for we've kept our lines complete and our stock right up to high-water mark until now. You'll find here a complete range for choice in models, sizes and patterns.

The opening of our Mark-Down Sale puts a terrific strain upon our whole organization. So many people rush in the first day or two that it's difficult to render that first-class service which we endeavor to give at all times.

So suit your own convenience in coming, for a stock the size of ours is not depleted in a day or a week, and we're just as anxious to have you correctly fitted and perfectly suited at sale time as though you were paying us a profit on the transaction.

REDS NOT SEEKING EVERS

Reported Trojan and Wilhoit Offered for Herzog--Red's Boss Remains with Old Club.

Cincinnati, July 17.—The Braves still have a chance to get Charley Herzog, manager of the Reds.

Boston's offer of a flat trade of Johnny Evers, with Joe Wilhoit thrown in, for Herzog has been turned down by President Herrmann, but Herrman has not closed with any other club in a deal involving Herzog and is willing to listen to further propositions before disposing of his manager.

Herrmann is willing to trade Herzog even up for Maranville, but Stallings states he won't consider such a swap for a minute.

Every club in the National League, except St. Louis and Philadelphia, has made an offer for Herzog. The New York offer is the best made so far, but certain conditions attached to it have kept the clubs from coming to terms, Herrmann says.

A trade of Herzog and Killifer to New York for Christy Mathewson, Eddie Rousch and "Bill" McKechnie is being considered, and may go through. If it does Mathewson will be the new manager of the Reds.

It is possible, Herrman says, that a trade will be made with the Giants without involving Mathewson.

Evers' ten-day suspension is up, but, as the club is going so well, he will keep on the sidelines. The Trojan was up on the lines yesterday and did not make any mistakes sending the runners around.

Braves but Two Games from Top

Cincinnati, July 17. — "Thin Tom" Hughes, who has held the Reds to one run and six hits in the thirteen innings he has worked against them this year, will try to pitch the Braves a few points nearer first place today.

They pulled up to within two games of the leading Dodgers yesterday when Jesse Barnes registered an easy 4-1 victory over the tailenders while the Cubs trod Brooklyn in a great sixteen-inning struggle in Chicago.

The Braves are confident they will be in first place when they return home July 26. The Dodgers seem to be slipping just enough to enable Boston's flying machine to overtake them by the end of the week.

Yesterday's victory, in a large measure was due to the patience George Stallings has shown on this trip.

The Big Chief generally is pointed as a man who believes in benching batters when they are not hitting, but the patience he has displayed in keeping Wagner, not only in the lineup, but in the cleanup hole, while the noted wallopper was in a batting slump, drew its reward in the third inning when S. Nottingham broke his slump with a triple that scored two runs and put the game on ice.

Magee had gone nine straight games without getting a hit. July 8 he got one blow in two times up and that was his last safe belt until yesterday, when he busted in with two.

Fred Toney held the Braves runless for twelve innings the last time he faced them, but he lasted only three rounds yesterday. Gowdy started Fred toward the showers by opening the third with a single.

Two infield outs put "Hank" on third and he never would have scored if Groh had handled Fitzpatrick's grounder cleanly. But "Heinie" kicked it. Then Wilhoit singled and Magee tripled.

Dan Patch Never Lost a Race in Long Career

The recent death of Dan Path, the famous pacer, has led to much discussion among horsemen as to whether the marks he set will ever be lowered.

Dan Path was foaled April 29, 1896, on an Indiana farm. As a three-year-old he began to show his speed to his trainer and the following year paced his first race over the half-mile track at Boswell, Ind.

In all his long career on the turf Dan Patch never lost a race and he raced against all the high-class pacers of his day.

He held many records, his more sensational performances being as follows:

Big Six Is Willing to Tackle Job as Skipper of Reds

St. Louis, July 17. — Christy Mathewson today declared that he was anxious to take over the managerial reins of the Cincinnati Reds. It was the first word the big pitcher had to say since the deal for Herzog was talked of.

"The worries of a manager don't appeal to me," said the Old Master, "but on the other hand, I'm fond of baseball to get out of the game before I have to.

"I believe the prospect of building up a team which is in last place, is fascinating. That makes me willing to tackle the Cincinnati job."

Sallee a Giant; Price Is Said to Be $15,000

St. Louis, July 17—Southpaw Harry Sallee, who quit the St. Louis Nationals while the team was in New York on its first Eastern trip, has been sold to New York for a cash consideration, believed to be $15,000.

New York assumed the back salary which has accrued since the pitcher left St. Louis and returned to his farm at Higginsport, O. The new owners also agreed to pay the $100 fine assessed against Sallee.

No announcement was made as to whether Sallee had signed a new contract with New York or the new owners had assumed the St. Louis contract, which calls for $6,000 a season.

Sallee may report to Manager McGraw here today. The New York manager said that Sallee probably would pitch his first game for new York against the Cubs in Chicago Wednesday.

MAHAN HOLDS CLAN OF JONES TO 7 HITS

New Haven, July 17.—Eddie Mahan, Harvard's noted football and diamond star, pitched the entire nine innings against the St. Louis Browns in yesterday's exhibition game. Mahan, though returned a loser, 4-0, showed good form. The American Leaguers, with practically a full team in the field, only found his offerings for seven hits. Fielder Jones played left field for his team in the closing innings.

Parks worked for the Browns and kept the Colonials' six hits widely scattered. He faned Charley Brickley with the bases full in the fifth.

Gala Time at Sox Park

Receipts Go to Soldiers

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

After having had so many double-headers, the World's Champions should be able to go at top speed for the full nine innings today against the Browns. This top speed stuff is what tells all the time in a game, no matter what the score may be. There is many a slip between the first and ninth inning, and a lead may be overcome. The champions are out to repeat, and they have as hard a task before them as any club in a similar position.

The race is so close that a slip of a few games changes the whole appearance of the standing. A week ago it didn't look as if the Red Sox had much of a chance to get as close to the top as they are today. But by batting all the way through the long array of double bills they forced the breaks and got five games in eight played, the seventeen inning no-run tie being in the records only for hits and errors, etc.

This is a proud record and should inspire confidence among those who have been weakened in their support of the team. The champions have performed like world beaters during their home stay, taking two out of three from Cleveland, four out of six from Chicago and splitting even with the Browns so far.

Aside from the game with the Browns today, the afternoon will be one of interest in the fact that the Boston club's share of the receipts will be turned over to swell the Soldiers' Relief Fund.

There will be a concert by the Sixth Regiment Band, a drill by the First Company of Coast Artillery, including guard mount and Company A, First Corps Cadets, will give "A Day in Camp," which gives a correct idea of a soldier's manner of living and his duties.

A parade will close the military exercises. Governor McCall and Mayor Curley will attend.

Leonard or Shora will work for Boston, while either Wellman or Plank will pitch for St. Louis.

Three of the second division clubs have a good chance to win, as far as opportunity in the games played and to be played is concerned.

WHITE SOX BEAR WATCHING.

Chicago is particularly aggressive just at present, having the soft thing in the league to contend with. Nor must the clubs forget that seventeen games are yet to be played between the Chicago and Philadelphia teams.

This fact alone puts the White Sox in the running from a speculative standpoint, for the reason that Connie Mack's team looks to be about the worst ever.

Occasionally they will win, no doubt, even the worm turned, but so far as giving any of the leaders trouble, nothing short of the hardest kind of luck and the wrong end of the breaks, should interfere with the Windy City boys getting a big percentage of the seventeen games. The club looked pretty good against the Red Sox, in fact was a wonderfully improved ball club.

TIGERS COMING STRONG.

As these boys are trailing right behind the champions, their course will be watched closely. New York is keeping the lead longer than many expected, but the Tygers are getting into their stride again. That is usually the way it runs.

About all the slumps the Detroit team had recovered against other clubs than Boston. These Tygers are bound to be in at the finish and the series with them, which closes the Western invasion, will be a scrappy one.

The champions came through a very hard week with colors flying. Their start was anything but encouraging, losing two games through lifeless baseball, but they cleaned up thereafter in great style. Taking a couple of double-headers helped immensely both in the standing and in the restoration of confidence among the players.

Then came the remarkable seventeen-inning no-run tie, and the other double bill which followed with the Browns. This was almost a clean-up, as is well known, and the hitting of the team in the final game Saturday, points to a chance to get started again beginning today.

CARRIGANS AT THEIR BEST.

The team is in perfect shape physically and the warm weather seems to have given the pitching staff what is required to pull it together. If the staff can come through to form and the boys hit anything like what is expected of them on past performances, they will win, and by a wide margin at that.

Close races afford plenty of food for arguments as to the outcome, and these help the game. On paper the Red Sox should repeat, but games are not played on paper and all the hoasting in the world will not win ball games. They have to be won out there on the diamond after all.

Manager Carrigan is a believer in the silent system so far as he is concerned in discussing his team's prospects. He feels confident that the ability is there and in are the boys are game, willing and eager.

Aside from that and a wholesome respect for the prowess of at least six other teams, he has nothing to say. His method differs from that of many limelight managers. He is at hard a worker as any, but puts his time in with his men.

LAST WEEK A GOOD ONE.

The five games won in eight played make it appear that the champions have the winning habit. The strain of a season's campaign is felt by all clubs, more especially one running for the title so much sought for.

If the present champions would only play the game with the confidence, so far as hitting is concerned, that the 1912 crowd did, their Saturday's swatfest may be expected many times this season.

Leonard or Shore are the twirlers to be pitted against either Weilman or Plank today, which, by the way, is one game, with the Boston club's end of the money going to swell the Soldiers' Relief Fund. President J. J. Lannin contribution in this respect should be a large one.

About fifty from the Home for Jewish Children will be guests of President J. J. Lannin tomorrow.

Welsh Has Solons Riled

Cancel Murphy Match

New York, July 17.—The fact that Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion, will not box anybody who seriously threatens to take the title from him is distressing a number of people, particularly the honorable Boxing Commission.

It is worrying this august body to such an extent that the commissioners are knocking their heads together, producing a hollow, drum-like sound, to devise ways and means of legislating Frederick's chin into the path of a five-ounce glove.

It is very selfish of Frederick to hog the title in this fashion, but the crowds who pay to see him perform with second and third holders are partly to blame themselves.

When the person who pays from one to ten iron men to see Frederick execute some new dance steps with a guinea pig lightweight begins to tighten the purse strings the Pompyridid boy may be forced to do some boxing with some real boxer.

COMMISSION IS PEEVED.

Themembers of the Boxing Commission, in common with thousands of students of the manly art, are inclined to believe that Frederick has been getting away with homicide ever since he won the lightweight title from Willie Ritchie. Well, if the old gallerles and the box seats were not pretty well packed Frederick would have abandoned his career of dance stepping and side stepping some time ago.

Month after month Frederick has entered the ring with no other motive than to chase himself around the ropes for thirty minutes while his enterprising manager is collecting at the box office.

MURPHY BOUT IS OFF.

After every Welsh bout the ring follower has raised his hand and said "Never again!" But a month later he would be back for the next boxing contest, featuring Freddie Welsh.

The philosopher who said that "there was one born every minute" was right if he referred to the boxing fans.

The most recent atrocity planned by Welsh was a bout with the superannuated "Harlem Tommy" Murphy. This is an indication of Welsh's appraisal of the intelligence of the fight fans.

If the Boxing Commission had not peremptorily cancelled the bout it would have been held and it probably would have netted Welsh a few thousand dollars.

The only thing that will bring Welsh to believing that he should give the fans a run for their money is a boycott.

Freddie is sensitive only in the region of the bankroll.

Brilliant Oxford Runner Shot at the Front

By International News Service.

London, July 17.—Captain Arnold Jackson, the famous Oxford foot racer, who won the 1,000-metre race at the Olympic games in Stockholm, is among the latest athletes to be wounded at the front. His name appears on the casualty list today.

Captain Jackson was shot in the thigh in one of the engagements of the great push on the Somme. The wound is clean, it is stated, and his chances of recovery are excellent, although it is hardly likely he will ever be able to race again.

Jackson visited the United States about two years ago, taking part in the inter-varsity relay. He had acted as special correspondent at the front for the International News Service.

Martin Canole, Once Ring Idol, Is Down and Out

Stockton, Cal., July 17.—Martin Canole, former lightweight pugilist, who was brought to this coast thirteen years ago from Fall River, Mass., to fight Jimmy Britt, the lightweight champion of the world, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in the police court here.

Judge Hugh Tyre recognized the former pugilist despite his overalls and tattered shirt. "You are not Martin Canole, the fighter who went up against Britt, are you?" he asked. "All that's left of him," replied Canole. "I guess no one would recognize me through this growth of whiskers."

"What happened to you?" asked Judge Tyre. "They brought you from Massachusetts to fight Britt after you had bested all comers of your weight in the country, didn't they? What did you do with all your money?"

"I went into the ring with John Barleycorn," replied the old-time idol, "and he has put me out for good. I came out to California in a Pullman," continued the expugilist, "My pocket was lined with gold. I am going to start back over the ties this afternoon."

RING REMARKS.

Master Jimmie Johnston, the breezy New York listic impresario, continues sending on happy boosts concerning Joe Welling, the Chicago welterweight, who names his Boston bow in tomorrow night's windup event with Walter Butler, the returning Revere battler, at the Arena.

Among other things, Master Johnston, in today's bulletin to The AMERICAN, says: "Welling is cool, clever, accurate, hard puncher, stands 5 feet 8 inches, can easily make 135 pounds ringside, and is tall enough to box middleweights. * * (Censured by R. E.) He accepted a match with Jack Britton in Boston at a minute's notice and then Britton ran out on him. In Buffalo, when Britton refused to meet "Battling" Kesper the second time, Welling took Jack's place and knocked Kesper out in the eighth round; something Britton had been unable to do. * * (Censured by R. E.)

"I firmly believe Welling can, and will, knock out Walter Butler. He is aching and eager to meet Britton at any weight because he knows he can whip him. Dundee, Leonard or White, at 133 pounds ringside, are also agreeable to him, but all the lightweights are afraid of him by will meet the welterweights, Britton and Johnny Griffiths preferred."

Mike Morray is confident that tomorrow night's preliminary bouts will prove the banner set of the season. He says that Joe Denovan vs. Jack Emery is the semi-final and the two scrapping steppers and their set-to should be replete with action. Manager Joe McCarthy claims that Denovan was never better than right now and expects his charge to hand Emery the worst walloping he has received in a long time.

"Irish Pete" Kline, the veteran little New York battler, is in Boston, and seeking some fistic scraps with lightweights. Will him is his manager, "Bill" McDonell, also of Gay Gotham. McDonell claims that Kline can demour both Joe Welling and Walter Butler, and is anxious to get tomorrow night's winner for his charge. He adds that Patsy is matched to meet Johnny Dundee in Philadelphia, August 28, and is hopeful he will be successful in the 15-round classic for his charge while in town.

"Battling" Kelly sends word from Baltimore he will be in Boston by the end of the week. He seeks some fistic scraps at 122 pounds, Johnny Donovan and Johnny Dewnes preferred.

Leo Mann of Cambridge writes the AMERICAN, challenging all the New England featherweights on behalf of his brother, whose ring cognomen is "Young Honey" Mann. It is Leo's fervent his brother is destined to become the best 122-pounder hereabouts.

Howard Carr, the well-known Chicago manager, writes the AMERICAN, stating that nothing will suit him better than to bring Steve Hamilton, the clever Chicago lightweight, whom he has handled well on the Coast, to Boston just as soon as wanted by the Arena Athletic management. Hammer is one of the few boys who has taken Joe Welling's taw. They had it out in hammer-and-tongs fashion at Kenosha, Wis., last Fall, with Hammer gaining the nod of the Chicago and Milwaukee press awards. A month or so later Hammer boxed rings around Hoo. Fred die Welsh at Milwaukee.

July 4 Hammer went on with Johnny Dundee before the Elks of East Chicago. Of course, the New York Scotch-Wop outstepped Ever, but it is Carr's claim that if the bout had gone 15 rounds Hammer, his boy would have won with a K. O. That is why Carr is anxious to have Hammer matched up with Dundee for Boston. Carr is confident the local twelve-round route is the spece precisely the distance his battler will require to get to the speedy New Yorker.

Jimmie Betts of Albany, N. Y., has Hugo Clemente, "the fighting Italian," to town—he works at 135-138 pounds—and wants to show him in Boston.

BIG FOUR RACE AT BEACH

Linart, Carman, Seres and Walthour Comprise Field in Brassard at Revere for Tonight.

TONIGHT'S REVERE CARD.

One-hour motor-paced race—Starters: Victor Linart, Belgium; Clarence Carman, Jamaica, L. I.; Georges Seres, France; Bobby Walthour, Atlanta, Ga. Amateur and professional open and handicap events.

Starting time—8:15 p. m.

A quartet of the best middle-distance riders in the world will face the starters' gun in the Brassard one-hour motor-paced race at the Revere Cycle Track tonight. The field comprises Victor Linart, present holder of the trophy; Clarence Carman, Bobby Walthour and Georges Seres.

This event marks the inauguration of Monday night racing at the beach oval, for, while postponed events have been held on this evening, this one will be the first regular series Manager Butler has planned, provided his schedule works out successfully.

Last Monday night's postponed competition scored such a hit that Butler immediately hit upon three meets a week in order to work in the many bike numbers which rain knocked out early in the season.

Linart defends the Brassard against a very select field. Carman and Walthour, after getting poor starts this season, have finally got going and are now riding in their best form.

Seres has been somewhat of a disappointment to date. He came here heralded as a faster rider than Didier, but to date has failed to show much ability. He is almost bound to come through, however.

Auto owners patronizing the Revere track are protesting against making Ocean avenue a one-way street. Nat Butler has also registered a complaint, as he claims it is hurting his business.

KRAMER IS KING FOR 16TH YEAR RUNNING

Newark, N. J., July 17.—Frank Kramer clinched the professional cycling championship of America at the velodrome here yesterday afternoon.

It is the sixteenth consecutive time Kramer has won the national honors. The race was at two miles, and Kramer defeated Bob Spears of Australia by a half a length. Kramer lead for the entire distance.

There is one more championship race to be decided, but the result will not have an bearing on the title. Kramer has a total of twenty-three points, while Spears, who is in second place, has only twelve points.

FOOTBALL STAR IS DEAD.

Bridgeport, Ct., July 17.—Frank McCormick, who was picked for the All-American football centre in 1906 after he had finished the season with Villa Nova, from which institution he was graduated in 1907, died here yesterday after an illness of two weeks with spinal meningitis. McCormick came here six years ago.

VINCENT CAMPBELL SOUGHT BY YANKS

New York, July 17.—It is reported that the Yankees are dickering for Vincent Campbell, the former National League and Federal League outfielder, to fill out in the meadows until Frank Gilhooley is in trim for work. "Rube" Oldring, the former Athletic, made a successful bow Saturday, but Lee Magee cannot get going and his failure to hit is coating the club heavily, so does was the race become.

MORAN AND MORRIS TO FROLIC AT TULSA

New York, July 17.—Frank Moran and Carl Morris have signed to battle fifteen rounds to a decision at Tulsa, Okla., Labor Day. Moran accepted terms and mailed signed articles to the promoters. The sorrel-topped heavy weight has received a guarantee of $10,000, with a privilege of 35 per cent.

Moran is doing light training at Long Beach.

Worcester Keeps It Up

Hitters on Swat Spree

Worcester's artillery continues bumping the ball in great shape, and the team threatens to take the Eastern League batting lead away from Springfield.

The Boosters are now sporting an average of .254, which is only four points less than the mark owned by the Green Sox. Worcester made a gain of two points the past week, while the Home City aggregation lost three markers.

Two changes were made in the standing in team hitting. Portland, by adding four points to its former figures, moved into a tie with Lowell for fifth place. Each team is awarting for an average of .242.

Lynn and New London are third and fourth, respectively, with averages of .248 and .247. Lawrence moved from ninth to eighth place, passing Hartford, with averages of .955, .954 and .953, respectively.

while Hartford tacked on one point, Bridgeport, with .210, continues the poorest hitting aggregation in the league.

New London remains the best fielding club in the circuit. The Millionaires are sporting an average of .963. Portland, Worcester and Hartford, with averages of .955, .954 and .953, respectively.

The Barristers gained four points,

What Is Your Idea of "A Dangerous Girl?" Do You Agree with What Dorothy Dix Has to Say on This Page?

Girls Who Are Dangerous

There Are a Good Many of Them and the Best Safeguard Is—Well, Read and See

By DOROTHY DIX

To each man his own fear of some particular type of girl, for, in order that there might be bachelors in the world to fill in at dinner parties and act as god-fathers to other people's kiddies, an All Wise Providence has ordained that the woman who is as fatal as angina pectoris to one man doesn't even raise a flutter of the pulse in another.

But all girls are dangerous girls to some man, and that's why men all over the country are humming and singing these lines from that popular song success, "YOU'RE A DANGEROUS GIRL."

"I love you, I love you!
You are just the kind of girl for me.
But there is something about you
makes me doubt you.
Why, oh why must it be?
You dare me, you scare me.
And still I like you more each day,
But you are the kind that will charm and then do harm—
You've got a dangerous way."

And, brothers, that's a particularly good and appropriate song for this season of the year. No wonder you are having it played "by request" by the orchestras on roof gardens, and that you are plunk-plunking it out on banjos as you loll on the cushions of canoes on moonlight nights, and that you whistle, and hum, and roar it at the top of your voices along the shady pathways of mountain resorts, for the Summer Girl is a Dangerous Girl wherever you find her, and you need all the help you can get from music, or anything else, to resist her enchantment.

HERE SHE COMES

Here she comes, brother. It's 11 o'clock at night in a make-believe grape arbor atop of a hotel where everything is as high as the prices, and everything is artificial from the grape juice to the winds that flutter the table cloths. Enter the Siren. Gold in her hair. Painted snow on her brow. Painted roses on her cheeks and mouth. Look of the huntress in her eyes. Laughter that is like the crackling of thorns on her lips. The foolish have branded her as a Dangerous Girl, but she's dangerous only to men who are in their first or second childhood. You can shrug your shoulders as the cynical orchestra strikes up the first notes of "You're a Dangerous Girl."

Then there's the Domestin Girl, brother. Not a bit showy, you know. No man would ever stop to stare after her in the street. She doesn't know whether a cocktail is a new kind of canned goods or war ammunition, but she can make the best angel food you ever tasted in your life, and when you go to see her on Sunday night, she always asks you to stay to supper, and the things she does with a chafing dish, and the way she's got with her little brother and sisters, sets you to thinking what a miserable life a bachelor's life is, and how cosy a little flat for two would be, and so on.

Of course you have no intention of getting married for ever and ever so long, and the very reason that you fall into the way of coming to see the Dangerous Girl so often is because you feel so safe with her.

Nevertheless, when Sunday night's supper is over, and when filled with chicken a la king, and peace and tenderness, you return to the parlor, rush to the victrola, put on the "Dangerous Girl" record, and play it with a loud needle.

And there's the girl who works in the office at the desk next to yours. Nice little thing. Trim and neat in her trig little tailor made suits, and her mannish little flat heeled boots. Competent, too. Draws down very nearly as good a pay envelope as you do. And the best of good fellows. Reason you like her so much is because she isn't always expecting you to pay her compliments, or make love to her. You can talk to her as sensibly as you could to another man; only—er—with a something different you couldn't say to another man, if you get what I mean.

NO, OF COURSE NOT.

She isn't dangerous. Oh, dear no.

You'd no more think of falling in love with her than you would with your little brother. It's friendship you feel for her. Nothing but friendship that makes you want to kill that fool of a Smith who's taken to hanging around her desk, and makes you so digest you can't settle to your work until you see her aleek head bending over her ledger of a morning.

Of course you're not falling in love with her, oh, dear no, but just as a precautionary measure you'd better hire a hurdy gurdy to play "You're a Dangerous Girl," under the office window three or four times during the course of the day.

Then there's the girl who's just girl, and looks as harmless as a kitten. She wears white, fluffy things, and she looks up at you as if you had hung the moon and made a good job of it, and she's so little, and clinging, and helpless, that a man begins to pet her an instinctively as he would a child.

And, of course, you can't help seeing that you've made an impression on her tender little heart, and then you begin to think that all things considered, you'd better be getting out of the radius of those big, blue eyes, and you tell her you've come to say good-bye, and she begins to weep, and—

Come on, brothers, join in the chorus, Now, all together:

"Cause you're the sweetest girl in the world
You're wonderful, Just marvelous,
But you're a dog-gone dan-ger-ous
Girl!"

SHE fly-fishes in her brother's boots, or her own, by gracious! In smock and sun-hat, all for the joy of plopping about in water like jade—for woman is a wise nixie and knows that to go back to the childish way of intent animal pleasure is to dip the tagged-out spirit into the Spring of Youth and bring it out fresh again—all for the joy of slipping and sliding through rock, and diamond spray, and turning up the face to the sun. If she has a soft heart, and the code of real sportsmanship on her ten fingers, she will put back her fish after his fight into his crystal world again, or if she wants him, manlike, she will kill him quickly.

The Biography of a Sinner

Vera Makes a Surreptitious Trip to the City to Buy An Evening Gown.

By ANN LISLE

There was a certain quiet, cynical self-possession about Norton, such as the son of the richest retired banker and nephew of the most powerful active banker in Brookbrooke would naturally assume. But there were glimmers of feeling back of it. When I pursued them they eluded me, and when I eluded they pursued. I determined to conquer.

Everything had been going very nicely at home for a long time. Len was in high favor with father for his work at the factory. Rex managed to keep out of disfavor. In my desire to give Norton delicious and unusual Sunday night suppers I practiced on the family, so the weekly meals were always good. Nellie was amiable and pleasant because I helped her.

The hundred dollars father had given me at the time I broke my wrist was not quite gone and I had not asked him for any money for three months. That in itself put me in his good graces.

Mother hadn't complained for a long time. I had come to notice that when things went along smoothly for the family her nerves didn't bother her and her back didn't need so many hot water bottles and soft cushions. Our family life had never been more serene. It seemed a propitious moment to approach father with a request.

The officers of the bank were giving a little dance on the night of April 1, and Norton had asked me to go with him. Myra's Spring vacation came the last two weeks of April. I wanted to assert myself of Norton's allegiance before she returned. I wanted to go to the dance with him and I wanted a new dress—a new dress that should not be a Roxbrooke product, but that should come from one of the best shops in the city.

Ten days before the dance I got up my courage to speak to father about it.

"Father, do you remember Norton's Uncle Sylvester? Norton introduced me to him at the Silver Lake Inn a few days ago. He said I was a regular Sheldon—looked like my Aunt Lucia. Who she?"

Father's face darkened and twitched strangely. "My sister. Lucia was my sister. She was engaged to Sylvester Gregory," he said curtly. "She died two weeks before their marriage. I hope you'll have a happier life."

I seemed a mystery and waited a minute, fumbling around in my mind for the right thing to say.

A SIMPLE REQUEST

"Mr. Gregory said he wished you and mother would bring me to the bank reception and dance on the 1st of April. Norton asked me, too."

Father had gotten out his handkerchief and was clearing his throat vigorously. If it hadn't been so absurd, I should have imagined tears were tears in his eyes.

"Your mother and I won't go," said father. "But I think you might—this once. You must be home by twelve, Vera, and we won't make a practice of such things. Too much society isn't good for young folks."

"May I have a new dress, father? A pretty one? Will you buy me one?"

"Haven't you any money, Vera? But never mind; Sylvester Gregory shan't think my girl shabby. How much will you need?"

"I'd like a pretty evening cape and a dress and slippers and stockings and fixings," I began.

"All right. Will a hundred dollars do it?"

At that time a hundred dollars was a magnificent sum. I knew I should have the prettiest dress at the dance and I determined that on the way home Norton Gregory should want to kiss me. I wasn't prepared to decide off-hand, however, whether or not I intended to let him.

New York was only a three-hour trip from Roxbrooke, but I had never been there. My existence had always centered around the town where I was born. Girls who have spent their young lives in girdling the globe cannot imagine the adventurous I felt when I decided that my new dress was to come from New York.

I figured that by catching the half past seven train I would have a wonderful day for shopping and still be in time for supper. I didn't consult anybody about my plans, but carefully gave the impression that I was going over to Milford, the university town, to purchase my dance finery.

Then I sent a telegram to Mildred Francis asking her to meet me at the station, and set about my little adventure. But all the way to New York I was planning little "white lies" with which to muddy my trip. I knew if father found me out I would never wear my dress to the dance.

Falsehood telling was getting to be second nature to me. I found it very advantageous to tell only so much of the truth as I wanted known and then to add to it what my untruths fitted in best with my schems of things. I often wondered if people became liars for no more serious reason than that they find it dangerous or inconvenient to tell the truth.

MILDRED MEETS HER

Mildred met me at Grand Central at ten-thirty and seemed equally divided in her concern about Rex and her interest in my shopping tour. I insisted laughingly that I wouldn't tell her a single thing about my brother until my dress and coat were purchased.

I know a duck of a shop, Vera—it's just off the avenue. They have wonderful dresses there for very little money. We'll get you all fitted out this morning and go to the Valthorp for lunch. Then you can tell me all about Rex. Is it a bargain?"

"It's a bargain," said I, and refrained from coin-naming that she hadn't acted much as if she cared whether or not she ever heard all about Rex.

The little shop off the avenue did have adorable dresses, but my hundred dollars suddenly ceased having any very great purchasing power. I found it would not just about stretch over a frock and a flimsy little evening coat, and that there was no thought of its leaving enough for slippers and stockings.

Mildred suggested that I pay for the coat and dress and charge the slippers and stockings to her. That seemed the only practical plan.

At last I found the very dress I wanted. It was palest pink taffeta with a silvery shimmer in its weave. It looked like the inside of a polished seashell, and the idea was carried out in its delicate trimmings of pastel hued tulle—pale yellow, azurine blue and the softest Nile green. Some shaded roses caught the silver girdle.

I ordered a hat to match—a most impractical costume for Roxbrooke. When it was paid for—in advance—there was just five dollars left of my hundred.

A LITTLE STRAYING.

At lunch time Mildred seemed to forget her interest in Rex, for two very attractive men came strolling up to us in the lobby of the Valthorp. Mildred acted completely surprised, but I had a vague little feeling that the meeting was prearranged. I wondered at the lack of strictness in New York boarding schools. And then I dismissed it as I had come to dismiss most things that bothered me. Mildred probably was no whit behind me in breaking rules!"

The men who lunched with us were different from any others I had ever met. Paul Semple was a playwright—not the long-haired, wild-eyed creature I had pictured, but a marvelously well-groomed and self-possessed man of about thirty. He was interesting and dark and had a look that might have seemed Spanish or foreign if he had not worn his black hair so close cropped and so smoothly brushed away from his white forehead.

Mildred was soon completely absorbed in him. For a minute I contrasted his effeminate good looks bitterly with Rex's sturdy strength. Then the latter requests in me stirred and I turned to examine the man I was supposed to entertain.

He had been introduced to me rather cavalierly as Jim Donaldson. Somehow the name sounded as he looked—big and strong and virile, with a certain exterior smoothness back of which lay mysteries for almost any sort of adventure.

Popular Boston Lady Claims Three Bottles of Plant Juice Cured Her Stomach Trouble

There are many things to be learned from experience. Among them is the fact that stomach trouble, which may be either inherited or acquired, and which produces dyspepsia, flatulency, palpitation of the heart, gas or a bloated feeling, coated tongue, headache, bad taste in the mouth, bad breath, liver and kidney trouble, or indigestion, can be successfully treated by the new stomach remedy, Plant Juice, now being introduced in this city by the Plant Juice Co. This preparation is a peculiar combination of vegetable compounds, which is manufactured from roots, herbs, barks and berries, which are specially gathered for it.

That Plant Juice is bearing out the reputation established in other cities, is conclusively proved by the many testimonials of well-known local people who have been benefited. One lady thought there was no help, as for instance, in the case of Mrs. Anna Harris, a well known and popular Boston lady, residing at No. 249 Dorchester street, East Boston, who stated:

"For 10 years I suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia, and everything I ate would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to form there. I was all bloated up with gas, and I almost were badly swollen. I could not eat any solid food and for years never ate any breakfast, as I could not keep it down. I had no appetite and nothing tasted good to me. I could not sleep on tea and toast. I had headaches and when I went to bed. Three bottles of Plant Juice have cured me and I have no more trouble with my stomach. I feel like a new woman now and give all credit to Plant Juice."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

Good Housekeeping Recipes

Good food properly cooked goes far toward insuring health and long years. As much depends on the cooking, however, as on the food itself. The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are republished here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level- tablespoonfuls equal a half-pint. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

Veal Aspic or Jellied Veal

One and a half pounds round of veal, one ten-cent bottle stuffed olives, one-half tablespoonful dried parsely, two tablespoonfuls chopped onion, one-fourth teaspoonful celery seed, two tablespoonfuls granulated gelatin, one-half teaspoonful lemon juice, one teaspoonful tarragon vinegar.

Cover the veal with two quarts of cold water, bring to boiling point, and simmer till tender, adding two teaspoonfuls of salt when half done. Let veal cool in the liquor, then remove, and measure out three cupfuls of the stock. Strain the onion and celery seed, and boil for three minutes. In the meantime put the gelatin to soak in a cupful of stock, add the boiling liquid, together with the lemon and tarragon vinegar. The veal should be shredded and mixed with the chopped olives and parsley. Strain the stock, and when it is beginning to set, stir in the veal and let stiffen in individual molds or a single large one. Serve with lettuce and mayonnaise, at either luncheon or supper.

Fish Pie

Two cupfuls flaked, cooked fish, three cupfuls mashed potatoes, one and one-half cupfuls white sauce, two tablespoonfuls minced parsley, one cupful grated cheese.

Butter a baking dish and line it with mashed potatoes to come about one-half inch above dish on sides. Put in a layer of fish which has been broken into small pieces, then a layer of white sauce with parsley thoroughly mixed up, and then half the cheese, another layer of fish and white sauce, finishing with the cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until cheese is brown. Left-over fish of all kinds can be used in this recipe.

The Man's Side of It

Something Girls Should Know if They Want to Be Accepted at Their True Valuation

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Recently great numbers of my girl correspondents have written me letters which could have been summed up in these statements:

"When John Doe finds at the end of three or four weeks that I'm not going to let him make love to me as a sort of return for his attentions, he loses all interest in me and drops me. Don't men like dignified, self-respecting girls any more? Is the only way a girl can have masculine friendship and a social good time the way of least resistance?"

So numerous were these letters, so earnest their writers, that I began to wonder if there were something in the suggestion that men no longer value fineness of character and dignity in women, but prefer rather the light facility and easy-going adaptability that permits of promiscuous love making.

After all, it is not exactly a woman's point of view my girls want on this matter, but a man's! I have talked to numerous men, all of whom declared that, of course, men still respect dignity and modesty, and that my correspondents were mistaken in imagining anything else. But that did not strike at the root of the problem.

At last I have found a man who, with simple practicality, faces the thing, fights it out and distributes the blame fairly and squarely—just where it belongs.

Here is his viewpoint, and I ask my girls to think it over very carefully.

Men do like modesty and dignity —they still respect it—they still want it in their sisters and wives as they take it for granted in their mothers. But because of a certain toleration which the world has always had toward lax standards of dignity for men, they do amuse themselves by making a little light imitation-love where they may.

What they want and even demand is a definite line of demarkation between the girl who is sweet and modest and the girl who is gay.

THE BLUNDER

If the modest girl who wouldn't dream of letting men kiss and caress her were honest and simple in her attitude from the very beginning, she would retain the liking and admiration of her men friends. Here lies her blunder:

She sees the gay and worldly girl being entertained lavishly and having a good time. She wants her good times, too, so she slavishly imitates the appearance and manner of the girl of whose conduct she is not going to be an imitator. She encourages her men friends up to a point; she coquettes and flirts and gives them every reason to suppose that she is rather the "good fellow" type.

Said the man whose opinion seems to me to sum up the case: "No man likes to feel that he is being made a fool of. When a nice girl coquettes and flirts and leads him on and then suddenly 'quits,' he feels a cold fury at her. His thinks she couldn't play the game so well unless she had had a little experience.

"He imagines she is letting some other fellow kiss her and make love to her, and that she is just leading him on in order to get a good time out of it, but that she doesn't like him well enough to let him hold her hand.

"Why, I have a lot of wonderful pals—girls I see a great deal of and take out and whose society I enjoy. I should never think of trying to kiss one of them. I'm not going to throw over a fine friendship with a worthwhile girl and have her think me a cad to boot.

MAKE THINGS CLEAR

"All a girl has to do is to make her standards perfectly clear. If she dresses and acts like a giddy little fool and then hauls you up short with an indignant 'How dare you! I'm not that sort of girl,' a fellow feels like an idiot. No man wants a girl to jolly him along and get all the entertainment she can out of him on false pretences.

"All a girl has got to do is to set a standard and stick to it. If she is going to be a friend and a pal she wants to act like one all the way through. If she's going to have a little flirtation or temporary affair of the heart she has to play that game honestly, too."

And there a very splendid, honest man has stated the case simply and as a man sees it.

The point is, a girl must stay in her own class, know her own mind and stand for what she is, fairly and squarely. Then men will accept her at her own true valuation —the one she puts on herself—and will not offend her by treating her as if she were the conscienceless little coquette she is imitating.

Not Her Fault

The new maid was entirely a makeshift, and the mistress bore with her patiently at first. But on the third day she placed a very unclean dinner plate on the table, and patience broke down.

"Really, Mary, you must see that the plates are clean."

"Well, mum," Mary rejoined, "I owns to the dirt, but them thumb marks, but that's the way I found 'em there afore I washed 'em."

Our Wonderful World

Quite apart from strong sentimental reasons, French people want to get their lost provinces of Alsace-Lorraine back because of their actual value.

In the provinces are some of the greatest potash mines in the world. These mines alone yield $20,000,000 worth of potash every year. Naturally, while the Germans have owned them they have made many millions out of them, supplying the world with potash, and with fertilizers from the rock salt which is mixed up with the potash beds.

Another fact about Lorraine which will surprise most people is that it has half the world's supply of iron ore, as well as huge untapped coal deposits. For the coal alone France would like Lorraine, for she is short of coal, and has to import 10,000,000 tons a year.

Altogether, the return of Alsace-Lorraine will increase France's annual income by some $50,000,000, so there is a business side as well as a sentimental one to the recapture of the lost provinces.

The raven, the jackdaw, the magpie and the jay may all be trained to imitate sounds and to utter words, and even sentences distinctly; but more familiar to most people are the talking birds of the parrot tribe, which acquire the gift of speech in far greater perfection than any other of their species. The voice of the parrot is also much more human in its tones; the raven is too hoarse, the jay and the magpie are too shrill; but there are modulations in the parrots' notes when speaking that are sometimes absolutely uncanny in their weird resemblance to the "human voice divine." This superiority is due to the construction of its beak, its tongue and head. The parrot, too, has a wonderful memory, and rarely forgets what it has once thoroughly learned.

HOME OF FORMER DEAN HURLBUT IS ROBBED

Burglars forced their way into the home of former dean Byron S. Hurlbut of Harvard College and wreaked havoc on the house and furnishings. Some time Sunday afternoon entrance to the house was effected by means of a forced cellar window.

The prowlers bothered not with skeleton keys or genteel methods of accomplishing their purpose. Doors were ruthlessly forced, and once inside, rooms, dressers, tables and sideboards suffered a like fate. Damage amounting to several hundred dollars was done. Fortunately the Hurlbuts, who are at Marblehead for the Summer, had placed most of their valuables in safety deposit vaults, and but little, if any, was taken.

Mrs. Mary Batchelder, who occupies the house next to that occupied by the former dean, heard noises coming from the Hurlbut home Sunday afternoon. She thought that some member of the family had come up for the day, and consequently paid no attention to the matter. Sunday night College Officer Reading discovered the break and reported it at once to the police. The former dean was sent for.

RUBBER MEN HERE FOR ANNUAL OUTING

Some fifty men representing the twenty-two big tire and rubbe companies of the country gathered in Boston today for the anual outing and get-together session. It was a gathering of the Rubber Club of America. Most of the men came from Akron, Ohio, picking up others at Cleveland, Erie and Albany along the way.

After lunch today, an auto trip along the North Shore and a dip at Manchester was in order, with dinner at the Masconomo Hotel to follow. Tomorrow, the rubber men will go to the Vesper Country Club at Lowell for golf, tennis, bathing and the like. Thence the men will scatter, some to New oYrk, some to the West, some returning to Boston.

Among the prominent rubber men here are E. C. Tibbitts, H. N. Bacon, A. H. Marks, H. R. Raymond, C. H. Raymond and W. O. Rotherford of Goodrich, E. S. Babcock of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, F. W. Litchfield of Goodyear and J. W. Thomas.

BEATEN AND ROBBED IN OLIVER STREET

John J. O'Connor of Brockton was beaten and robbed in an Oliver street building early today, and later two men were arrested after the police had secured the business section in a taxicab hunt.

The men under arrest on a robbery charge are Charles E. Clarke, twenty-two, and Lester Douglas, twenty-one, both of Boston, and both formerly in the United States army, according to the police.

O'Connor told the authorities he was accosted by the pair on the street and practically carried into a building on Oliver street. There he was held a prisoner, robbed of $7.50 and terribly beaten, he said.

Patrolman Driver saw O'Connor on the street, his scalp cut and bleeding, and his face and clothing showing evidences of a severe beating.

Driver requisitioned a taxi at the South Station, and with O'Connor started off on the hunt for the assailants. Policeman Kinnear was taken into the taxi, and soon a passing motorist gave a clue. This autoist said he had seen two men answering the description at Rowe's Wharf.

The chase ended at the wharf. O'Connor identified the two men, who are alleged to have made a confession to the police.

HEAR ARGUMENT IN CASEMENT APPEAL

By International News Service.

London, July 17.—Arguments in the appeal of Sir Roger Casement from his conviction on the charge of high treason were delivered before five judges in the Court of Criminal Appeals today.

The chief points made by Alexander Sullivan, K. C., chief of counsel for Casement, were:

1—Whether the matter described in the charge against Casement was an offence within the statute under which the indictment was drawn.

2—Whether the definition of the offence of "adhering to the King's enemies," as given by Baron Reading, the Lord Chief Justice, in his charge to the jury, was an accurate or defective definition.

The arguments were heard by Justices Darling, Bray, Scrutton, Lawrence and Atkin.

5 DEAD, MANY MISSING IN FLOOD

Raleigh, N. C., July 17.—With five known dead and thirty to fifty persons missing, the flood situation in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, caused by torrential rains, became worse today. Scores of victims were unable to open their doors, and early estimates were that fully 20,000 workers had been made idle.

The damage, at first conservatively estimated at $10,000,000, increased hourly today as the rising waters carried away building after building that had withstood the first rush, and it is feared that the total damage will go over $20,000,000.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weak in New York at the noon bell prices ruled above the morning's lowest. Closing prices were higher and rallies had some support. Trading had been dull all the forenoon.

Declines at 12 o'clock included American Can ¾, American Smelting ¾, American Zinc ⅝, Butte & Superior ⅝, Goodrich 1, Car and Foundry ⅝, American Locomotive ⅝, Baldwin ⅝, Crucible ⅝, Industrial Alcohol 2⅛, Mexican Petroleum ⅝, Texas Co. 1, Maxwell ⅝, Studebaker ⅝, Chandler 2⅜, Willys-Overland 2, Reading ⅝, Baltimore & Ohio ⅛ and Union Pacific ¼.

Among gains were Distillers ¼, U. S. Rubber ⅛, Marine preferred ½, Inspiration ⅝, Kennecott ¼, Anaconda ⅝, Southern Pacific ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅛ and Chesapeake & Ohio ¼.

U. S. Steel and Utah Copper were unchanged.

Irregularity prevailed in Boston, where trading had been narrow. Declines included American Zinc ⅝, Butte & Superior ⅛, Boston & Maine ⅛, North Butte ⅛, Mohawk ⅛ and Quincy ½.

Among gains were Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies common ⅛, Copper Range ⅛ and Osceola 1. U. S. Smelting was unchanged.

Business was dull on the Boston Curb and price changes were trifling as a rule. Among issues to show morning gains were Rilla, Boston & Montana, Shannon and Tonopah preferred. Issues which had declines included Cresta Copper, Majestic, Jerome Verde and Mojave. Active issues were Rilla, Fortuna and National Zinc. The last two were unchanged at the end of the first hour.

At the start prices were higher in New York, with Butte & Superior, Greene-Cananea and Studebaker among the strongest. But gains were not long held. Bears picked out a number of war specialities and motor car issues as objectives for attack, and the market reacted at once under selling pressure. There were large offerings of Studebaker, Maxwell, Willys-Overland, Industrial Alcohol, Crucible, Baldwin, Reading and some other issues. It was a trader's market and not active. Only a few buying orders accumulated over Sunday. The public continued to be indifferent. There was no improvement in the first hour. In all only 300,000 shares of stocks were lower than at Saturday's close.

The Boston market began firm and quiet, with the bulk of trading in American Zinc, Gulf common, Copper Range and U. S. Smelting. Rumor of a consolidation of American Zinc and Butte & Superior was denied. At the end of an hour most issues showed gains. The foreign visible supply of copper declined 1,014 tons in the first half of July. The Boston call rate was reduced today from 5 per cent. to 4½ or 4 per cent.

Incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts. Capital 1,000,000 shares, par value $1. President, Frank G. Wright; secretary, Jacob C. Morse; treasurer, George W. Field. Office of the company, No. 19 Congress street, Boston. Transfer office, Metropolitan Trust Company, Boston.

PUBLIC SERVICE

Monday, July 17, 1916

The Boston Elevated and Its Employes Are to Be Equally Congratulated

THE Boston Elevated employes have done well in their negotiation with the Elevated Railway. The Elevated Railway has done well in its negotiation with the men.

Arbitration is vastly better than industrial war, which is the proper description of a strike, but direct peaceful negotiations are better than protracted arbitration, which necessarily involves great expense and loss of time. They are wise to avoid these strenuous arbitraments just as business men are wise to keep out of the courts whenever possible.

So long as the employes of our public service corporations do not obtain more than is paid for similar employment in the direct public service and so long as that is not more than a fair wage, the public will not object to paying the price. High reward for labor which does not lead to extravagant expenditures and idleness is not harmful to the public welfare. The Boston Elevated and the Bay State may both safely assume that the public does not begrudge their employes an American wage.

Summer Furs Carry Disease

What About Dogs and Cats in Summer and Winter?

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

YOU observe that physicians advise against the use of furs in Summer because they carry germs. At one seaside resort the authorities have forbidden wearing of "Summer furs," and very wisely. There is no doubt that disease germs dwell and multiply in furs. And furs in Summer are foolish, anyhow.

But what about the cat or the dog with which you allow your child to play?

If a stuffed fox around a woman's neck may carry disease germs, what about a LIVE cat or dog?

A stuffed fox does not go out at night and roam the neighborhood. It does not stick its nose in swill barrels as cats and dogs do.

A stuffed animal does not seek out filth as ALL DOGS DO.

We might justly ask, what about doctors' beards? For beards are a kind of FUR. And the beard of a doctor goes wherever there is disease. However, we say nothing about it, because we do not want to hurt any good doctor's feelings. If it were not for that we should advocate a law compelling all doctors to be smooth-shaven, or at least to stop after each visit to a patient and have their beards washed with a mild solution of carbolic acid and alcohol.

We observe that in the hospitals doctors compel female nurses to wear nice little caps to cover up their hair—this is to keep the germs from spreading. If it were not for our great respect for doctors, we should advocate a law compelling them to wear nice little caps on their beards in active service, unless they consented to shave or to disinfect with carbolic acid.

But to return to the cats and the dogs.

If you would not willingly see your child playing in Summer time with the germ-carrying fur neckpiece of some strange woman, how can you endure seeing your child playing with a dog or a cat that drags its fur you know not where, and that visits preferably filthy places?

If you want to avoid disease, begin at home. Get rid of the cats and dogs. They are out of place except in an Indian camp or elsewhere among barbarians.

The cats in big cities are responsible for probably one-half the carrying of diphtheria and scarlet fever. And every one of them should be eliminated.

And what is true of cats is true of dogs in cities also.

Once-Overs

Have some sort of fad for the sake of recreation, even if it is nothing more than making a collection of moths and butterflies.

You need something to relieve your mind, something which will bring thoughts different from those you must have in the work-a-day struggle.

However, do not become so interested in outside things that you encroach on the time necessary for succeeding in your business.

In adopting a fad, select something light and restful, not so deep as to give you brain fag; for choice, something which will take you out into the open air and give you exercise.

There is nothing more beneficial to most people than walking. Take hikes into the country. This is better done with definite purpose. Go and get back within a given time, have a definite destination. Walk fast. Don't lag.

Study the birds in your locality—their names, haunts and modes of living.

Perhaps you get enough exercise with your daily grind of work. If so, take up the study of some subject which will improve your mind. Brain work is just as necessary to health as physical exercise.

Follow the Gary system in your daily life. It works out well.

AH, GOOD EVENING MRS. JONES, HOWDY SHERIFF
WHAT A LOVELY SILK HAT, MR. WILLIE!
YOU LOOK SO WELL IN A HIGH HAT
I JUST BOUGHT IT FOR FOUR DOLLARS
OH MR. WILLIE!
BEFORE I SIT DOWN I MUST TELL YOU HOW BLOOMING YOU LOOK
TAKE THIS CHAIR, MRS. JONES
OH, IT'S TOO BAD!
HAR, HAR! ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN. YOU CAN GET IT BLOCKED IN THE VILLAGE, WILLIE.
YOU JUST WAIT!
OH, SHERIFF, HUSH!
YOU LOOK LIKE A YOUNG GIRL OF EIGHTEEN

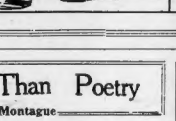
More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

The Old Story

CHEER up, though you perhaps may think
That we've arrived at ruin's brink,
Although we toil to swell the spoil
Of looter, crook and grafter;
A number of devoted men
Will save the country once again,
Yes, sir, you bet, if they can get
The offices they're after.
It will not put them out at all,
To save the country every Fall.



THIS year the patriots once more
Are rushing round from shore to shore,
And up and down from town to town
Intent to save the nation.
And yet, somehow, we sort of feel
That still the fell oppressor's heel
Is going to vex our prostrate necks
In spite of our salvation.
Though words are spilled and flags are waved,
The country never will stay saved.

It's No Use

The Congressman who gives up his seat to enlist will come pretty near cinching it on his return.—Washington Post. Curiously enough, even this excellent argument has failed to fill the District of Columbia regiments with enlisting statesmen.

Immune

Let it be understood once for all that the Marshall under fire from the House of Representatives isn't Thomas Riley Marshall. Congress is too full of politicians to start anything against a son of Indiana.

Look Out!

General Roosevelt will have that new brigade mobilized before the next National Republican convention.

Nothing Left to Guesswork.

Mr. Bryan says patriotism is a mystery, and it will be generally conceded that Mr. Bryan is the best known man in the country.

How Could He Qualify?

The Philadelphia North American's suggestion that Mr. Daniels take that month's naval training cruise is futile. There are certain elementary mental tests that must be passed before candidates for the cruise can be accepted.

Not Knocking a Republican Presidential Candidate

Let us hope that when Carranza gets that loan he will leave some of it at the barber shop.

Unsight Unseen

It is said that Mr Hughes lets his wife buy his neckties. But in Mr. Hughes' case no one can ever know what they look like.

Ask Any of Them

There is always a cheer for the volunteer when he marches along the street, but when he's compelled to sleep four to a seat in a stuffy plush coach of the vintage of 1888, for a journey of five days and nights that is something else again.

Is Knowledge Power?

By Charles F. Thwing

President of Western Reserve University

NO half-truth holds its place with greater persistency than the remark that knowledge is power. The full-page advertisement proclaims it. The orator declares it.

But is knowledge power?

Is water dammed in the stream, is coal or iron in the mine power? Each may be a possibility of power; each contains elements; each, under certain conditions, becomes power. But, as such, neither still water, nor unmined coal or iron, is power.

Likewise knowledge, as such, is not power. If knowledge were power, the greatest libraries, or those who have mastered their contents, would be the men of power most powerful. But they are not. There are persons who have "laid so many books on their brains that their brains cannot move."

Diverse and many are the kinds of power. There is intellectual power; it is the power of thinking. There is the power of will; it is the power of decision and persistence. There is personal power; it is the power of character.

In general, power can be defined in terms of doing. Intellectual power is the power to see and think for ourselves. Moral power is the power to make others see and believe. Knowledge alone does not create power.

The gaining of knowledge increases intellectual force. It gives the force of reasoning, of judging, of thinking. As one learns and reflects on his learning, he finds that his power of reasoning increases, enlarges, deepens, broadens. If he learns accurately, he thinks likewise accurately. If he learns thoroughly, profoundly, he thinks likewise thoroughly and profoundly.

As a rule, first-rate scholars are first-rate thinkers, not because of their scholarship, but because, in becoming scholars they have made themselves first-rate thinkers. John Stuart Mill represented the transmutation of scholarship into thought.

Not only in acquiring knowledge, but also in using knowledge, intellectual power is gained. Sometimes great knowledge is packed into a single mind. The mind is made a reservoir for holding. The knowledge does not, however, flow. The facts are packed away with slight regard to their orderly relation or significance. Such a man we call bookish or encyclopedic.

Such a mind is a library, a book, an encyclopedia. It is often a union of wood pulp and black ink! It lacks life. It has no vital interests. But let that same mind be put to using its knowledge and that mind does become vital.

Let that same mind seek to classify its stores and it is compelled to think. Let that same mind be obliged to relate its scholarship to great human endeavors and it becomes a force.

It is well to know, it is well to have a library, both within and without one's head. What happiness in books, what pleasures in just knowing!

But such advantages, as they never so rich, are not power. They do not make the forces which DO. They are sort of educational films which are hung before the mind, giving pleasure and recreation, but not quickening thought.

The distinction between the mind as a receptacle, as a mental wheat elevator, as a storehouse, and the same mind as an engine, as an electric motor, as a dynamic force, is ever to be observed.

When the intellectual coal is put into the fire of action, power results; just as when the wheat of the elevator is put into flour and the flour made muscle, nerve and brain power results. But knowledge which does not stimulate thought and lead to action is not power. It is not broad knowledge, but deep thinking, which is the world's greatest power. As it is the world's greatest need

Wonders and Treasures of a Glacial Sandbank

Where the Unthinking See Only Stones and Dirt Garrett P. Serviss Finds Inestimable Gems of Science and Chapters of the Oldest History

By Garrett P. Serviss

WHERE I live, in the western garden behind the Palisades wall, there is a low hill of glacial drift, on whose summit rises a large, modern public school, while a roadway is cut through the midst of the hill.

On the other side of the road from the school, isolated from the main mass of the hill by the cutting, and crowned with a windmill whose base is hidden among scraggly trees, stands a steep-sided knoll, from which they take, as occasion demands, quantities of the fine sand, gravel and clay which the eddying currents ground together and piled up there at the time when the battle front of the great glaciers still hung upon the Palisades, while their glittering ranks slowly dissolved under the cumulative attacks of the fast rallying forces of the world of sunshine.

Where the picks and shovels of the contractors' men have made a crumbling cliff, as perpendicular as a wall, which gradually eats back into the knoll, first uncovering the roots of little trees and leaving them to sink out, helplessly grasping at the air, and then bringing them down in ruin, I often step across the chasm of geologic time, and beyond the curtain of the ages.

The school children who sometimes look from over the way, and are amused by the spectacle of a gray-haired man, who ought to know better, poking his cane into a dangerous bank, and inviting premature burial while he fills his pocket with pebbles, think they see me.

But they are mistaken. They see only as much as their eyes show. My real self is wandering invisible, but full of animation, behind that wall of sand and gravel, and the wonders of the preadamite world.

Instructed by what is visible on the face of the bluff, I can enter into its inner secrets, and find myself in the midst of the elemental battle that opened a new era of peace and sunshine for this part of the earth, and left it fit for the coming of the human race. That world-war between the ice and the sunbeams may have occurred as much as half a million years ago!

Let me tell you something of what is written on the front of the bluff, and of the inestimable treasures that I pick out of it—beautiful pebbles, with tongues that will speak, if you can but understand them, of "ancient far-off things and troubles long ago."

Here and there a round, smooth, compact colored stone, as big as your fist, or your two fists, projects out of the bank, and catches your eye like a plum in a slice of pudding. Sometimes these rounded stones are richly purple in the sunshine—a mineral fruit that might make your mouth water; sometimes they are glittering white, like marble apples; occasionally they are banded with various hues, resembling huge, coarse-grained agates or onyxes.

When you pick them out they leave smooth, hemispherical hollows in the clay or sand which was packed round them at least a hundred thousand years before Adam met Eve in the Garden of Eden. Every one of them came from some place toward the north, and a few of them show still the scratches that were made when a grinding glacier held them in its icy grasp and scraped them mercilessly over the hard rocks of the Palisades, or their outlying buttresses. A geologist might trace any one of these stones back to the northern hill from which the glacier wrenched it.

In some places there are thin bands of smaller pebbles, intermixed with sand, and these are often veritable gems, semi-precious stones to the eye, and wholly and inestimably precious to the imagination. They are as varied in color and texture as a box of jewels. Some are crystalline, some are amorphous, most are very hard and polished. Many are streaked and spotted with contrasting hues, rounded fragments of granitic rocks, which had an eventful history of millions of years already behind them when the glaciers came to bear them away into the midst of other world-throes.

Frequently I stand in front of the wonder-bluff (which does not seem at all wonderful, but rather commonplace, to people who pass it with indifference every day) and study the little, bright-faced pebbles that have not yet fallen from their ancient glacial sockets. Sometimes there will be half a dozen or more, every one different in kind, place of origin and color, which were thrown together and buried in one living grave so many ages ago that the duration of human history is but a day in comparison, and now, when they are suddenly disclosed, they lie there just as they have lain during all the enormous lapse of time, cheek to cheek, unchanged in color, in beauty, in form, or in attitude, and as the sunshine strikes them their eyes seem to open and they sparkle at one another, as if at last they could recognize the companions of their long, dark sleep.

Then I like to dig a little way into the bank and disclose other lost pebbles—which had been there, unmoving, ten times ten thousand years, when Alexander invaded Asia, when Caesar conquered Gaul, when Columbus landed in America—and enjoy with them the first glint of sunshine that they have beheld in all those mighty eons.

Two Automobiles

By William F. Kirk

ONE was a wonderful sixty-horse car
With a driver in buttons and braid;
It glided along past the press of the throng
With its passengers out on parade.
She was a beauty, who blinked at the sun
And down at the river it lighted.
Possession and Pride went along on that ride,
But Happiness wasn't invited.

The other car puffed as it straggled along
With mother and kiddies galore.
The patient old sun took a peep at their fun.
Then seemed to warm up even more.
And Happiness came to join in the game
And shout to the heavens above.
And never a slip could spoil this glad trip,
For the name of the driver was Love.
